Human rights panel joins in call for grand jury

By DEE CAIN
Staff Writer

The Human Rights Commission Tuesday night voted to send a formal letter to the City Council asking the council to request a grand jury investigation of the Saturday night disturbance at the Anthony Buckner Apartments.

After much discussion, commission members also resolved to continue a subcommittee investigation into the incident, and to report all findings to the mayor and council.

The commission decision came after a special Monday night council session, in which the local chapter of the NAACP proposed a grand jury investigation. The council voted 6-2 in favor of the grand jury probe in a straw poll.

Following the disturbance at the public housing units early Saturday morning, several blacks claimed police used excessive force to quell the disturbance. Eight residents of the complex were arrested in the incident, and both residents and police reported injuries.

Sid Harwell, chairman of the Human Rights Commission, said the subcommittee would continue gathering testimony and information about the incident, and could make its findings available to a grand jury, should one be called.

He said he did not agree with a suggestion by committee member Benny Williams to drop the investigation and simply request a grand jury investigation.

"Since we were appointed by the City Council, we should proceed. If we wait for the grand jury, and I don't think there will be one, we might wait several weeks. Memories are hazy, and an investigation three weeks from now is not as efficient as an investigation right now," Harwell said.

Commission member Harold Vogel said he also felt the commission should merely advise the council to proceed with a grand jury, and said he saw no need to duplicate investigations.

Williams said he felt a subcommittee investigation would be pointless, in light of a statement made Monday night by Police Chief William E. Miller. Miller told Harwell the subcommittee could not interview any policemen involved in the incident because Miller had asked Prosecuting Attorney Mark Kempton to study the possibility of filing state charges against persons arrested in connection with the disturbance. Kempton had advised against permitting interviews with police, he said.

Several members expressed doubt that a grand jury would be called, and for that reasons backed the decision to continue the commission investigation.

At Monday night's special City Council meeting, Harwell argued for permitting the Human Rights Commission to investigate the incident, rather than a grand jury. He said the commission's subcommittee had already uncovered some "inconsistencies" in police versions of what happened, but conceded that accounts of some Buckner residents also varied.

Partially in response to the weekend's incidents, the commission also appointed a four-member committee to seek funding for a race relations education program for city employes.

Commission member Charlie Moon, who suggested the program, said all public employes should be involved in the program first, and then possibly school children and local educators.

Harwell said he has written the governors of California, Texas and Arizona, which now use similar educational programs in the schools, and asked for detailed information on their race relations courses.

Harwell said he supervised the establishment of a race relations course in the Air Force that now has been adopted by the Department of Defense for use in all service branches, and said if local schools do not provide such courses now, they should.

"We can never eliminate prejudice and bias. But if we can teach children and adults to recognize it, we can control it," he said.

In other business, the commission elected Mrs. Virginia Walch secretary to replace Stanley Cox, who resigned.

Hearnes may run for office in '78

CHARLESTON, Mo (AP) — Former Missouri Gov. Warren Hearnes said today he was considering running either for state auditor or Congress in 1978.

Hearnes said he would not make a decision on his future election plans until after the first of the year.

The former state chief executive said he was considering running for U.S. representative from the 10th District, or the auditor's post.

"I've had a lot of urging from friends on both races," Hearnes said in a telephone interview from his Charleston law offices. "But I have told them I will not make a decision until the first of the year.

Hearnes said he was thinking about running for the congressional seat now held by Rep. Bill Burlison, D-Mo, which includes 19 counties in the southeastern part of the state.

However, Hearnes added that he was leaning toward the auditor's race.

"My inclination has always been more toward a statewide race," Hearnes said. "In all probablity if I do make a race it will be for state auditor."

The current auditor, Thomas Keyes, was appoointed by Gov. Joseph Teasdale early this year, when former auditor George Lehr resigned.

Hearnes said one reason he was leaning toward the auditor's race was that he had spent much of his life in Jefferson City.

Hearnes is the only man to serve two successive full terms as governor. The state Consitution was changed during his first term to allow the governor to serve two terms.

Since leaving office Hearnes has been practicing law in Charleston and St. Louis.

Hearnes also said the auditor's race was more attractive because it was the only statewide office up for election in 1978 and thus would head the ticket.

The former governor said he had "access to polls" showing there would be a favorable reaction to his candidacy for public office again on a statewide basis.

Hearnes was an unsuccessful candidate for the U.S. Senate last year.

Rep. Jerry Litton, D-Mo, won the Democratic primary but was killed election night in a plane crash on the way to his victory celebration.

Later, the Democratic State Committee selected Hearnes as the party's candidate for the general election. Attorney General John Danforth, the Republican nominee, won the U.S. Senate seat in a landslide election.

A four-year investigation into Hearnes' financial dealings, dropped recently, figures in his decision to attempt another statewide political race, the former governor said.

In September, the U.S. attorney for western Missouri, Ronald Reed, announced his office was dropping its investigation of Hearnes because of a lack of evidence to press charges.

Hearnes said "a lot of people" had a negative reaction to the investigation because it took such a long time to bring it to a close.

Now, those people would be receptive to him running again for public office, Hearnes suggested.

Demos on labor 'hit list'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The AFL-CIO, in a major shift of political tactics for the 1978 congressional elections, is planning to punish a number of one-time Democratic friends who voted against key labor issues this year.

"Why should we help someone who's going to put a knife in our members' backs," said an official of the Committee on Political Education, the AFL-CIO's political arm.

Officials of the committee, known as COPE, say there are several tactics that may be used against their "former friends," including withholding support, running someone else in the primaries or endorsing acceptable Republicans.

COPE contributed about $3 million to House and Senate campaigns last year, most of it to Democrats. Of 28 candidates COPE endorsed for the Senate, 19 won. In the House, it endorsed 362 candidates; 256 won.

The committee in the past has lent its support to candidates who shared the labor federation's general economic and social objectives.

Next year, it will focus more on specific labor issues and be more selective about the Democratic candidates it backs, according to one official.

But a top union political strategist said the new policy "shouldn't be a threat at all."

"We're in the business of politics because we expect protection and help, and when they don't give it, that's not the kind of guy we need in Congress," he said.

No specific names have been mentioned — "we don't have an official hit list," said one labor strategist — but officials say there are 30 to 40 congressmen the AFL-CIO helped last year who voted against issues that had labor's top priority.

These included legislation to overhaul the nation's labor laws to make it easier for unions to organize plus bills to increase the minimum wage, broaden picketing rights at construction sites, require that more foreign petroleum be carried aboard U.S.-flag ships and allow federal employes to participate in partisan politics.

The labor law bill passed the House after a bitter fight and the minimum wage measure passed both the House and Senate, but the picketing and cargo preference bills were defeated.

Area towns recognized at banquet

JEFFERSON CITY — Several west-central Missouri communities were recognized at the 14th annual Missouri Community Betterment Conference awards banquet here Tuesday.

Warrensburg placed first in the category of cities over 10,000 population and received a plaque. Other honored towns included: LaMonte, which won third place in its population division of 500-1,000 and received $300; and Lincoln, which placed fifth in this same division and collected $100.

Hughesville and Lincoln were both cited for their outstanding youth involvement and Rebecca Ann Schlomer, Hughesville, received one of the five youth leadership awards given. Cole Camp received a certificate of merit for outstanding community involvement in compiling a book of local history and Concordia was designated as a 1977 five-star community.

In order to receive this honor, Concordia met community betterment requirements in education, transportation, utilities, community services and planning. Also honored was Mrs. Marge Stolz, Warrensburg, who received an Ambassador Award in recognition of her enthusiasm and involvement in Missouri Community Betterment.

Oil rig in California blows up, killing three

The burning well... Red Adair team on the way

TAFT, Calif. (AP) — Three workers dangling helplessly in a basket above an oil well were burned to death when the well exploded, forcing officials early today to send for famed oil fire battler Red Adair.

The blaze at the sprawling Elk Hills Naval Oil Reserve, the nation's largest reserve outside Alaska, began Tuesday with an explosion deep inside the 7,000-foot well. A geyser of oil and flames spewed more than 100 feet into the air.

The blast blew the three men out of their suspended basket and hurtled them more than 50 feet from the oil rig, said Kern County Fire Department Capt. Ron Marshall.

"One man got up and tried to run, but he collapsed after about 125 feet," said Marshall. "All their clothes were burned off. Two of them still were wearing their heavy work boots."

Identities of the victims were not released.

Weary oil field crews from this tiny town 140 miles north of Los Angeles worked today to assemble eight to ten 500-barrel water tanks near the well for Adair's Houston-based crew.

"We're pouring 900 gallons of water a minute onto the flames, but there's no way they can shut off the flow of oil so they're letting it burn," said Marshall.

"Even if they were able to get in, they believe the control devices to shut it off were destroyed in the explosion and fire."

Officials said there were no buildings within half a mile of the fire and that no other oil wells appeared to be in danger.

All oil lines near the fire were shut down, said Howard Schlieman, general manager of Williams Brothers Engineering of Tulsa, Okla., prime contractor of drilling operations at Elk Hills, where an estimated one billion barrels of oil is stored underground.

"It was either human error or mechanical failure, but we may never know which," said Schlieman.

The well erupted into flames when a packer being placed into the well became jammed Tuesday.

A packer is a doughnut-shaped device designed to keep oil and gas from escaping around the outside of the drilling rod.

Murder suspect shot, apprehended

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — A man charged with murder in Oklahoma and suspected in the shooting of a deputy sheriff in Missouri was being held at the University of Missouri Medical Center after being felled by a bullet fired by a water safety officer.

Authorities said Willie Taylor, 22, was shot in the right leg with a high powered rifle as he ran from some woods across an open field near Camdenton Tuesday afternoon. He was taken to a hospital for treatment of a broken leg and later transferred to the University of Missouri Medical Center in Columbia. His condition was listed as fair.

Taylor, who was barefoot, had been flushed from the woods by bloodhounds, who were called in Monday after he abandoned a truck he allegedly stole at gunpoint earlier in the day. About 90 local, county, state and federal officials were involved in the search.

Taylor is wanted on a murder warrant in Muskogee, Okla., in the February 1976 stabbing death of his brother-in-law, Cecil Collins, 21. He is also wanted on an assault charge for an attack a year earlier on his wife and sister-in-law.

Teasdale makes debut as comedian

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Gov. Joseph P. Teasdale made his debut as a stand-up comedian Tuesday night, trading barbs with the city's business and political leaders at the annual Gridiron Dinner.

The dinner featured several skits and songs lampooning Teasdale for what the Gridiron roasters consider his unwillingness to recognize St. Louis as part of Missouri.

Another skit, noting that Teasdale had skipped a fancy governor's conference reception in favor of a hamburger, featured a sweatsuit-clad actor playing Teasdale in a greasy-spoon restaurant.

"Give us a couple of cheesedale burgers," he ordered.

The real governor then took his opportunity to respond to the roast by saying how much he appreciated the chance "to meet all you St. Louis bigshots."

Teasdale blamed former Gov. Christopher Bond for Teasdale's reputation that as a governor he would rather go fishing than work. Bond trained nine security guards as expert fishermen, Teasdale said, and he is now forced to follow their lead.

The Governor then took a shot at Lt. Gov. William C.

Compromise ends up failing

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — When carrying canned drinks in a six pack cooler I keep them very cold by making the sixth can an ice can by filling an empty can three-fourths full of water and freezing. Better to have five cold ones than six lukewarm ones. — ANNA.

DEAR POLLY — When my foot socks (footsies) become worn on the bottom I apply an iron-on patch to cover the hole or even a thin spot. I prefer blue jean material but any heavy type can be used and my socks certainly wear a lot longer. — MRS. D.F.R.

DEAR POLLY — My Pointer is for those do-it-yourself painters who often get more paint on themselves than on what they are painting. When using an oil base paint I found clean up is easy when you use petroleum jelly and a clean cloth. The jelly takes the paint right off your skin and even the linoleum floor. — JOY K.

DEAR POLLY — I do not dirty a pan to melt chocolate but wrap the needed chocolate squares in foil and put them in a pan over low heat. When melted open the foil, scrape out the chocolate and throw away the wrapper. — BETSY.

Polly's problem

DEAR POLLY — I hope you have an answer to my problem. My husband wanted wall-to-wall carpeting in our new home and I wanted to keep our oriental-type area rugs for the dining room and living room. He got his carpeting and I put the rugs on top of it but these rugs creep up and will not lay smooth. Our rug man has no suggestions and I do not know what to do. — FLORENCE.

DEAR FLORENCE — I am afraid you won but you lost, too. Several rug and carpet installers have also told me that yours is a problem for which they have no answer. There are things that can be done when rugs are on wood floors but not when on top of carpet. How about this, readers? Have any of you stumbled on to an answer? — POLLY.

The party will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. Monday in Convention Hall.

Main attractions will include a spook house stroll, monster movies and a costume contest. Everyone attending must wear a costume and prizes will be awarded for the scariest costume, funniest costume and the best all-around costume.

Other activities will include a "cemetery dig," "spook toss," "liver pop," "eye grab," "monster hunt" and many more surprises.

Mind-body approach key to health

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Expensive health spas don't turn people into healthy beauties at the touch of a wand, even at a fee of $1,250 a week. There is a lot of hard work involved.

"In fact, our spa is known as the hard-working spa," commented Deborah Szekely Mazzanti, 56, whose 87 staff members serve only 30 men and women guests. Fundamental to the entire operation is the exercise program, she said recently on a trip to New York, defending the six or so hours that may be devoted to exercise each day.

"The body needs as much movement as it needed thousands of years ago when our ancestors lived outdoors and had to search for food, and the replacement of food is every bit as important as the expenditure of energy. We show people how to eat properly as well as exercise," she said.

Because she didn't "need another guest at the spa" in Escondido, Calif., Mrs. Mazzanti decided to share her knowledge of the spa in a book, "Secrets of the Golden Door." She and her first husband had founded the first spa in Mexico 37 years ago. It is still thriving.

A mind-body approach begins the day at the spa, she explained.

"They wiggle in bed to greet the body consciously before the alarm goes off — sort of, 'hello, good morning, how are you?' Then they take the body out of bed because it has been lying without movement for so many hours. Everybody should have two minutes available to raise arms and stretch nude in front of a mirror and see their own reflection as they settle into their body for the day," she says.

Exercise — outdoors, in the water, dancing, hiking and so on — is part of a personal activity chart that is prepared each day for a guest.

A typical day might begin at 7 a.m. with a guest taking a three-mile hike. At 8 o'clock she might be having coffee and juice, ready for five more hours of exercise interspersed with a lunch of salad and souffle, beauty massage, yoga. A Japanese, family-style tub bath and massage round out the day.

It takes work

Exercise is vital to health, maintains Deborah Szekely Mazzanti, inset, who insists that the guests at her California spa do a great deal of it.

(AP)

Exercises at the spa are put on cassettes and choreographed to music so that guests can continue at home. Each guest talks up her own tape. For example, "Raise your arms, Deborah. C'mon now, higher," and so on, as Mrs. Mazzanti illustrated with her own tape which she had with her.

"Anyone can make one of these tapes to enjoy in her own home, and the exercises can be changed from time to time," she explains.

As for food, learning to eat is an educational project, with portions rather than calories stressed. A table is laden with 100-calorie portions so that one learns to judge food quantities. There is also a table of "nonos," or junk food.

"The custom is for everyone to get the same portion of food even though, for example, the male is bigger and stronger. Portions should be gauged more to body size. If food is served from the kitchen there are fewer temptations," she said, and she likes to serve entrees on salad plates, and salad on dinner plates, for the same reasons.

"And when kids go off to college, it is a good time for mother to buy a set of small pots — she'll eat far less. And shopping for food each day will cut quantities purchased and one can walk to the store and get daily exercise."

Brooklyn-born Mrs. Mazzanti spent her early childhood hiking in the Catskill Mountains with her mother, a vegetarian, and a German hiking club. In Tahiti, where she lived as an adolescent, she and her parents met health enthusiast Edmond Bordeaux Szekely, who operated health camps in California and Mexico, where they later stayed. At 17, Mrs. Mazzanti married Szekely and the following year they opened the Rancho La Puerta spa in Mexico, which expanded into the largest health spa of its kind, she said. She married Dr. Vincent Mazzanti in 1972.

Mrs. Mazzanti's book contains low-calorie recipes, as well as exercises, and menus served at the spa.

meeting adjourned

Richard Cooper, social studies instructor at Smith-Cotton High School and newscaster for KMOS-TV, spoke to the Saturday meeting of the Osage Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution at the Bothwell Hotel.

His topic was "National Security — the Constant Struggle."

Cooper told the group that liberal and conservatives in Congress are constantly seeking others to join their causes and said that each side is persuasive in its arguments.

He told the group that U. S. military strength is surprisingly good, but that the U.S. needs to be alert to see if the all-volunteer army is adequate. Cooper stated that the military force is the smallest in recent years.

Guests at the meeting were Mrs. John Harvey Jr., Mrs. Virgil Ellis, Mrs. Virginia Tipby and Mrs. Dora Neimeyer.

Senate greets Humphrey with standing ovation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hubert H. Humphrey, delighted with his hero's welcome in the Senate, vows he'll win his fight against cancer while becoming President Carter's congressional champion and confidant.

A five-minute standing ovation from the floor and galleries Tuesday marked the Minnesota Democrat's first appearance in the Senate since it was announced that his cancer is inoperable.

Frail but bouncy, Humphrey smiled and waved and scampered around the chamber, shaking hands with senators and page boys, embracing Vice President Walter F. Mondale and blowing kisses to his wife, Muriel.

"The greatest healing therapy is friendship and love, and all over this land I have sensed it," Humphrey told the Senate when the tumult faded.

Earlier, he told reporters gathered in his Senate office that his, faith is unshaken.

"I know in my own case I've got to have absolute faith I can win my battle, or I can't win," said Humphrey whose struggle is reflected in his face and in the thinness of his body.

"Doctors can't win it for me," he said. "They can help. But they tell me, and it's absolutely true, I've got to win this fight. I've got to be sure that I can win it. And I do believe I can win it or I wouldn't be back here."

He said the greatest therapy for him is excitement and work, and the work he wants to do now is for President Carter.

"I like him," he said of the President. "I have confidence in him. I believe he's doing a good job.

"But he's under considerable pressure these days," Humphrey said. "He needs nothing more now than he needs a friend.

"And that I am. I want nothing. I'd like to give a lot. ..."

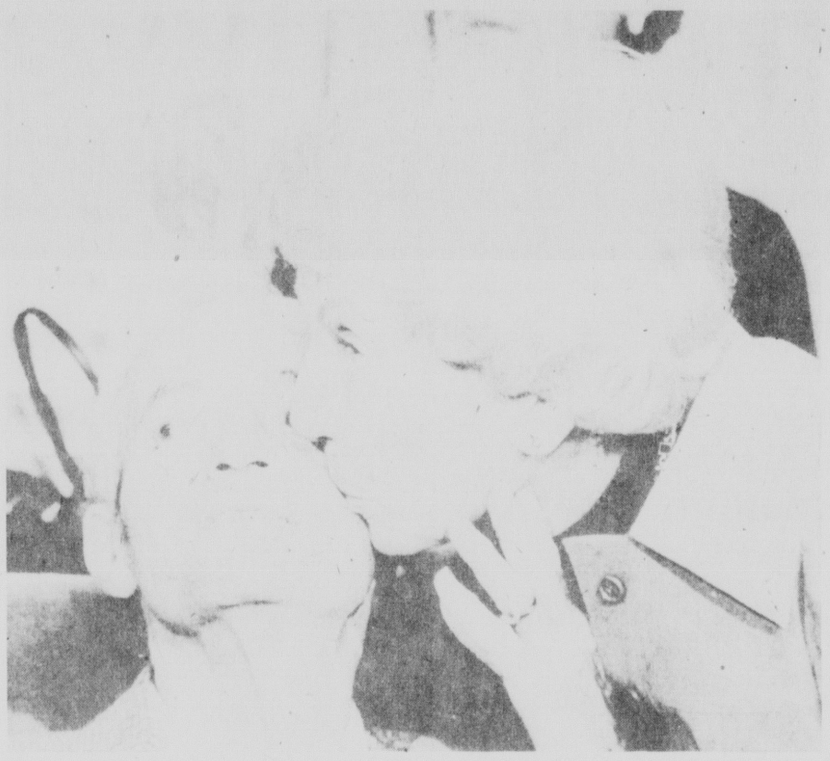

In his speech to his colleagues and the packed Senate galleries, Humphrey said he has "been through a pretty rough struggle. But one of the doctors back home said: 'Hubert, we have done about as much for you as we can for awhile. Why don't you go back to Washington where you want to be. ...' And I said, 'Doctor, that is pretty good advice.'

"I waited, however, because I am a frugal man, until I could get a free ride," Humphrey said as laughter erupted. He returned to Washington as President Carter's guest aboard Air Force One.

"Well, for at least 20 years I've been trying to get on Air Force One," Humphrey added to more laughter.

At the end of his talk he apologized, as he almost always has to do, for talking too long.

"I did not intend to be that long, but that has been the story of my life," he said. "You would want me to be natural."

Funds for home weatherizing are set aside

A total of $32,338.02 in federal funds will be received by the Missouri Valley Human Resource Development Corp. for weatherizing homes in its seven-county west-central Missouri district, it was announced Wednesday by Gov. Joseph Teasdale.

Bob Schultz, director of the MVHRDC, said he does not yet know how much will be spent in Sedalia. However, he noted that Pettis is the most populous county in the MVHRDC district and hence often receives the "lion's share" of such federal funds.

The funds will be used to purchase materials to insulate, caulk and weatherstrip doors and homes. Storm windows and doors will also be purchased. A total of $583,161.87 has been granted by the U.S. Department of Energy to 17 community action agencies across the state. It is estimated that more than 1,800 homes owned by low-income families and elderly and handicapped persons will be served under this program.

Eligibility for the funds will be determined by the MVHRDC in accordance with federal guidelines. Schultz said Wednesday that because of paperwork, the program will not start until around Dec. 1.

Additional funds have been allocated through the federal Department of Labor and Community Services Administration to pay workers to install the insulation and perform other weatherizing chores. The specific amount of these funds was not reported.

Waters sentenced for striking officer

Charles Waters was sentenced to six months in the county jail and fined $500 in Circuit Court Tuesday afternoon after a Pettis County jury found him guilty of striking a police officer during the performance of his duties.

Waters was charged with striking Highway Patrol Trooper David Gisel June 19, 1976. The incident reportedly occurred while Gisel was administering a breath test on Waters for driving while intoxicated.

The trial, held here on a change of venue from Benton County, lasted only about six hours, including the jury's deliberations.

GOP club plans to hold rally here

The Pettis County Pachyderms Club has announced plans to hold a special Dutch treat rally at 7:30 p.m. Friday at Bothwell Hotel.

Kansas City attorney John Cozad will be the featured speaker for the event.

In a press release, the club said "the need for a good 'old fashioned' Republican townhouse meeting and fellowship is long over-due. All Republicans need to let 'by-gones be by-gones.' "

Reservations should be made by calling 826-6611 after 5:30 p.m., it was reported.

Group proposes program to help petition drives

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A five-point program aimed at eliminating faulty initiative petitions was proposed today by the Missouri Public Expenditure Survey.

The group, primarily supported by businesses throughout the state, contended the legal procedures it proposed would better inform the public about initiative petitions being circulated and help correct technical faults in them before backers begin gathering signatures.

"All too often such proposals are drawn up in a faulty way," the group said in a statement. It cited an instance in 1972 when 160,000 signatures were gathered for a petition that was later declared invalid because of a drafting error.

The Expenditure Survey was critical of other petition drives it claims placed detailed matter in the Constitution, which should contain only general fundamental principles, or which were of questionable legality.

The proposed legal changes included:

—Requiring sponsors of the petition to file it with the secretary of state before beginning to gather signatures.

—Requiring backers of the petition to register with the secretary of state.

—Requiring the attorney general within 10 days after the petition is filed with the secretary of state to determine whether it should be a constitutional or statutory proposition. His decision would not be binding on the petition backers, but could be used as a guideline in the petition campaign, the group said.

—Requiring an estimate within 10 days of submission of the petition on the economic impact on the state if it were adopted. Such an estimate is now required but only after signatures have been gathered.

—Requiring the secretary of state to hold a public hearing on the proposal to elicit public comment on its contents.

"While not compelling sponsors to alter proposals, the suggested procedures should contribute to more soundly drawn measures and would not be unduly burdensone," the group said.

Missouri is one of 23 states allowing voters to place issues on the ballot by gathering a required number of valid signatures. Supporters of strong initiative process in the state have opposed efforts to increase the legal requirements that must be met before petitions qualify for ballot status, claiming they inhibit the process.

banquet by being named the grand prize winner and receiving a $500 prize and trophy. The community, located east of Kansas City in Lafayette County, picked up an additional $500 and plaque by also being named the top town in its population category of between 2,500 and 5,000 residents.

Other first-place cities were: Maitland, under 500 population; Bland, 500-1,000; Edina, 1,000-2,500; and Perryville, 5,000-10,000.

More than 300 Missouri communities participated in this statewide civic improvement program administered by the Missouri Division of Community Development. The two-day conference is being attended by more than 1,000 Missourians, including several Pettis Countians. Several Sedalia city officials also are attending the conference.

Change in zoning law up for review

A request by Myron and Leah Sinn, Warsaw, which was continued last week by the Zoning Board of Adjustment, will be considered at a meeting of the board to be held at 7 o'clock tonight in City Clerk Ralph Dedrick's office.

The Sinn's are seeking permission to construct a single-family dwelling in the city on a lot less than 60 feet wide. The board decided not to take final action on the request last week because it wanted to confer with City Counselor Robert Fritz.

The property in question is located at 660 East 14th and is 45 feet wide.

Wal-Mart Store to locate in Sedalia

A six-acre tract on the south side of West Highway 50, between the Thompson Hills Shopping Center and the Ramada Inn, has been sold by E.W. Thompson to Wal-Mart Stores Inc.

The company, headquartered in Bentonville, Ark., operates a chain of discount department stores. The company Wednesday morning declined to release details of the planned new building, but it was learned that construction probably will not start until next year.

Communities vote 'yes' on projects

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

In local elections, voters approved a $600,000 bond issue for a new reservoir near Marceline, a $1.5 million water system improvement in Neosho, a $275,000 sewer system improvement in Pineville and a $1.6 million street improvement project in Cameron.

Marceline voters gave 580-92 approval to issue $600,000 in revenue bonds to build a new reservoir. The city was plagued with water problems last summer. Voters also okayed a one-cent city sales tax.

In Neosho, the vote in favor of $1.5 million in revenue bonds was 781-427. The improvements will include a one million gallon elevated storage tank and a plan to connect the cities three separate water systems.

In Pineville, $50,000 in general obligation bonds gained approval on a vote of 122-12 and $225,000 in revenue bonds received 121-12 approval. The money will be used to complete the city's sewer system.

Cameron voters gave 318-115 approval for a $1.6 million general obligation bond issue for street improvements.

Residents of the small resort town of Arrow Rock, in Saline County, unanimously approved a one cent sales tax by a vote of 46 to 0 Tuesday.

Approval of the tax for this community of about 80 population was believed to be the first time that a sales tax has been approved under a new Missouri law permitting sales taxes in towns of less than 500.

Arrow Rock is a historical resort with shops, country stores and cafes that cater to tourist trade.

Clear skies some solace

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A high pressure system brought sunny skies to Missouri today, with the National Weather Service predicting a repeat performance for Thursday.

The sunshine burned off patchy, dense fog that covered many sections of the state this morning.

Temperatures were expected to climb into the 70s both today and Thursday, with overnight lows in the 50s. Winds are expected to be light and variable.

The clear skies were some solace to the residents of the tiny community of Tracy, north of Kansas City, where the Platte River inched toward a crest of 29.5 feet, 10½ feet above flood stage. Several families left their homes Tuesday night, while others just stacked their furniture as high as they could.

Flooding is nothing new for the town, and the crest of nearly 30 feet is still several feet shy of the 1965 waters that swamped the community, nearly covering many houses and buildings.

The Grand River was about four feet above flood stage at Gallatin this morning.

Charges possible; man is being held

A 25-year-old Sedalia man remained in the city jail at noon Wednesday pending the possible filing of charges against him for possession of a controlled substance.

Police reported the man was arrested at Seventh and Osage about 3:15 a.m. Wednesday after he reportedly made an improper left turn at Fifth and Ohio.

Randy Silvey, police information officer, reported officers noticed an opened bottle of whiskey and a marijuana roach clip on the seat of the man's car.

Upon further investigation, officers found two bags of what was believed to be marijuana, a marijuana pipe and eight black capsules in the man's car.

Reports of the incident have been turned over to the prosecuting attorney for the possible filing of charges, Silvey said.

Arraignments held in marijuana case

Robert Mueller, 51, Route 4, Reed Springs, and Charles Meinershagen, 50, Route 1, Blackburn, were arraigned in Magistrate Court Tuesday afternoon on felony charges of sale of a controlled substance, marijuana.

The pair was arrested by undercover Highway Patrol agents after a "buy" was set up in Sedalia early Tuesday morning. They allegedly sold about 92 pounds of marijuana to the agents for $50.

Meinershagen was arrested after Mueller indicated Meinershagen was involved in the transaction and was the supplier. Another 185 pounds of marijuana was confiscated from Meinershagen's farm home.

Both men are free on $5,000 bond each, with preliminary hearings scheduled for Nov. 18.

Man stabbed while crossing street

A Sedalia man was stabbed several times as he was crossing a downtown street about 3:15 p.m. Tuesday, according to police.

Michael Eugene Reedy, 34, 1614 South Sneed, told police he was crossing the street at Third and Lamine when two men attacked him and cut him with a knife.

Reedy reportedly had knife wounds on his right leg, right arm, chest and forehead. He was taken to Bothwell Hospital by private car for treatment, according to authorities.

— Five cases of Hamms beer, valued at $35, were taken from a train box car parked behind D & D Beverage Co., 1218 West Main, sometime Tuesday night.

Hughes' utopian town may have crowds soon

By CARL MANNING
Associated Press Writer

RUGBY, Tenn. (AP) — At a visitor's touch, the front door of Thomas Hughes' vacant, well-kept home swings open on the center of utopia.

In the drawing room, a chess set on the center table awaits the return of the last founder of an English colony in North America.

Except for a paved highway before the green board-and-batten house and 97 intervening years, it's much as it was when the author of "Tom Brown's School Days" sat beneath the trees in his back yard listening to the whispers of the summer's breeze.

Hughes' dream of a community where everyone shared equally, died four years after it began in 1880. But a contemporary dream lives: the Rugby Restoration Association hopes to make the Morgan County town an attraction for historians and tourists. The U.S. Interior Department recently approved a $109,945 grant for a park.

But like Hughes' dream, the assóciation's plans have had frustrations. Arsonists this past summer torched one of the first buildings erected, the renovated Board of Aid to Land Ownership office.

Irreplaceable photographs were lost in the flames, pictures of Hughes and his followers. Another building, to be used as a library, also burned.

A popular member of Britain's Parliament, Hughes was repelled by primogeniture, the ancient English law that left other than the first-born sons of nobility to starve like gentlemen.

Only the eldest son inherited his father's title and the family's fortune. The younger sons had to earn their way in the already crowded professions of law, medicine and the clergy.

Aided by wealthy friends, Hughes purchased 75,000 acres of Cumberland Mountain greenlands from the Boston Land Co. in 1870.

Hughes envisioned a colony of eager young men developing model farms and gardens, operating a cannery, vineyard and mill — occupations custom forbade them in England.

They knew little of agriculture and were more interested in tennis, afternoon tea and daily baths — something unheard of in 19th-century East Tennessee.

At its zenith, the community had about 50 buildings and 450 residents — scientists, doctors, lawyers and assorted members of the landed gentry. Seventeen buildings remain.

Their American neighbors noted the area was settled with flintlock and broadaxes, while the newcomers were outfitted mainly with the coin of the realm.

The community's first winter was one of the coldest on record. There was a summer drought, and an outbreak of typhoid that killed several community leaders followed. Then the Southern Railway broke its promise to lay a seven-mile spur to the community.

Backers of the project were worried. Al the money was going out, including $250,000 Hughes invested, and it was doubtful the debts of the founding company would ever be paid.

By 1884, the town was bankrupt. An enthusiastic group stayed another decade before scattering in search of another utopia.

Weather aids state harvest

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Ideal weather allowed considerable progress in the harvest across much of Missouri last week, the state Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said Monday.

In some areas, only spot harvesting was possible because low-lying fields were still too soft and wet for machines. The reporting service said 5.8 days were suitable for field work last week.

The crop service said many farmers are finished with the harvest but lack of storage space is causing some local problems, especially in northeastern Missouri.

The weekly report said soil moisture supply is short in one per cent of the state's fields, adequate in 80 per cent and surplus in 19 per cent.

Soybean maturity reached 90 per cent, somewhat ahead of last year, and the harvest advanced to 44 per cent complete. The soybean harvest is running about 10 days behind normal.

The harvest of the corn crop progressed last week to 65 per cent complete, two weeks ahead of normal but five days behind last year. The grain sorghum harvest was 73 per cent complete.

The crop service said 68 per cent of the cotton crop had been harvested by the end of last week, compared with 37 per cent at the same time last year.

Navy Machinist's Mate First Class William R. Trautman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence F. Trautman, Route 4, is serving aboard the U.S.S. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Navy's newest aircraft carrier.

Corn surplus to be even larger unless demand increases

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's stockpile of corn is slightly larger than Agriculture Department experts have been estimating, meaning that unless domestic and export demand rise more than currently projected, the surplus a year from now will be even larger.

As of the start of the new corn marketing year Oct. 1, the inventory was 878.8 million bushels, compared with 398 million a year ago, the department said Tuesday in a quarterly grain stocks report.

The department had been estimating the Oct. 1 corn carryover at 876 million bushels, the most since it was 1.13 billion on that date in 1972.

The 1977 corn harvest, currently estimated at 6.3 billion bushels, is more than experts say will be needed in the 1977-78 crop year. Thus, the corn reserve next Oct. 1 could rise to around 1.35 billion bushels, the most since nearly 1.54 billion bushels were left over on Oct. 1, 1964.

The report showed that the Oct. 1 corn inventory was about equally divided between grain stored on farms and in off-farm facilities.

A new supply and demand report based on the Oct. 1 information was scheduled to be released by USDA today. It was to include domestic use and export projections for the 1977-78 corn marketing year.

The quarterly report said the Oct. 1 stockpile of the four major feed grains — corn, sorghum, oats and barley — totaled 43.1 million metric tons, up 59 per cent from a year ago. Besides corn stocks being more than double, sorghum reserves were up 77 per cent, oats 27 per cent and barley 8 per cent.

The report also showed that stocks of wheat on and off farms were a record high of almost 2.4 billion bushels, up 10 per cent from less than 2.19 billion a year ago.

The wheat marketing year runs from June 1 through the following May 31. By next June 1, when the 1978 wheat harvest will be ready, the wheat stockpile currently is expected to be about 1.2 billion bushels, the most since the early 1960s. Last June 1 the wheat reserve was 1.1 billion bushels and on June 1, 1975 it was 664 million bushels.

More laying

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's hens produced an estimated 5.3 billion eggs last month, up 1 per cent from September of last year, says the Agriculture Department.

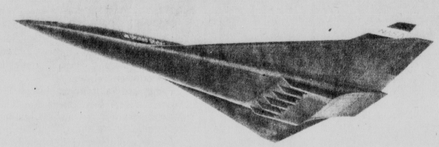

As of Oct. 1, there were 280.3 million laying hens at work, an increase of 2 per cent from 275.6 million in flocks a year ago, officials said Tuesday. The rate of lay was 63.9 eggs per 100 layers on Oct. 1, compared with 63.7 on the same date last year and 64.3 on Sept. 1.

The report said the number of egg-type chicks hatched last month totaled 37.1 million, a decline of 2 per cent from 37.7 million hatched in September 1976.

But the September hatch of broiler-type chicks in September, at 279.9 million, was 3 per cent larger than a year ago.

Police may have bomb motive

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — St. Joseph police say they have a possible motive in the mailing of a bomb to a 19-year-old St. Joseph resident, but were not releasing details.

Half a dozen homes in the southeast part of St. Joseph were evacuated Tuesday while police detonated a bomb that had been delivered to one of the residences in a package carried by a postman.

Ray E. Jensen summoned police after receiving the package in the mail. It was addressed to his 19-year-old son, Jayme. The elder Jensen told Sgt. Marvin Atkins, police bomb expert, that he opened one end of the package, saw some wires and batteries, and threw the package out in his backyard.

Police said Jensen, who is left-handed, had opened the left side of the package, which apparently had been set to explode when the right side was opened. Authorities said that may have saved Jensen's life.

Postal authorities from Kansas City joined authorities in St. Joseph in investigating the incident.

A police spokesman said debris from the bomb was blown 100 feet in the air. Officers said debris indicated part of the bomb was a cylinder containing buckshot.

No damage was reported to the surrounding homes.

Atkins said he wanted to detonate the device in the Jensen yard because he did not feel it was safe to move it further.

The houses on either side and those behind the Jensen home were evacuated.

Former Texas Gov. John Connally, seen by some as a potential candidate for president in 1980, told a GOP fundraiser in Indianapolis Tuesday that President Carter is following a domestic policy of retrenchment and a foreign policy of ineptness. (UPI)

Biko death blamed on brain injury

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Government pathologists who performed the autopsy on Steve Biko found that the young black leader's death in prison was due to "extensive brain injury," informed medical sources report.

The pathologists also reported evidence of an injury on the left side of the chest and "acute renal (kidney) failure and uremia," the sources said.

The autopsy report has not been made public. Justice Minister James T. Kruger said on Monday that it was turned over to Atty. Gen. J.E. Nothling of Transvaal, the province in which Biko died on Sept. 12, and it would be up to him to decide whether an inquest was necessary.

Kruger added that he expected an inquest because of "overseas reaction and the public reaction to the Biko matter."

Biko, the 30-year-old founder of South Africa's black consciousness movement, was the 21st South African black to die in police custody in the past 18 months. He had been on a hunger strike for a week, and Kruger at first attempted to attribute his death to the fast. But there was widespread suspicion abroad and among South African blacks that he was fatally injured in a police beating.

Government pathologists performed the autopsy the day after Biko's death in the presence of doctors appointed by his family. Kruger said last week he had no information that the police had beaten the prisoner, but there might have been a struggle to handcuff him.

"I believe they must have beaten him up," Biko's widow said Tuesday. She said her husband would not have struggled with the police.

Dental health to benefit from fluoride

Better dental health will be provided to Sedalians when the city's fluoride system is installed, local dentist Murray Whitehead told members of the Sedalia Noon Day Optimist Club Tuesday at the State Fair Motor Inn.

While providing added protection against dental decay, the fluoride will not affect the taste of drinking water, Whitehead emphasized.

Dave Woolery also spoke before the group, emphasizing the importance of involvement in one's community and country in order to achieve the best results both locally and nationally.

The club's youth appreciation week activity will be held the second Tuesday in November, it was announced.

Guests at the meeting were Ken Schilb Sr. and Smith-Cotton football players Jim Holman and Frank Norphy. The meeting was led by club president Andy Anderson and the invocation offered by Tom McCully.

The earliest defensive implement was probably a wooden shield.

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Exercise may aid leg veins

Dear Dr. Lamb — I suffer from varicose veins and so was very interested in your column about them. I found out the hard way what standing without support can do. I got a mild case of phlebitis after doing it one New Year's Eve.

I want to know if a person with varicose veins should jog. I would like to take up jogging — not to excess, but 15 minutes to half an hour a day on the grass or a thick carpet. Jumping rope is another activity I would like to start to increase circulation and the strength of my feet.

As varicose veins are inherited in my family but not in my husband's are there any precautions I should take with my 9-year-old daughter to prevent her from suffering from this condition? She loves gymnastics.

Dear Reader — The point everyone with varicose veins needs to understand is that when you work the muscles in the legs they contract against the deep veins in the legs. This milks the blood up toward the heart. Exercise involving the legs actually decreases the pressure of blood in the veins in the legs.

As long as the deep veins are working properly exercise may even help empty the surface veins you can see over the legs.

By contrast, if you stand still there is nothing to milk the veins empty and the blood pools under pressure. This increased pressure tends to stretch the elastic veins in the legs. That is why standing is hard on veins but walking or jogging is not.

Of course you can jog if your physical status is otherwise normal. Start gradually, though, not because of your varicose veins but to avoid discomfort and muscle soreness. I'm not as enthusiastic about jumping rope unless you are already in good shape and know how to do it without jarring the feet too hard. An inexperienced rope jumper can damage the bones in the feet and it will not make the feet stronger. I'll vote for a jogging program for you instead.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 5-8, Varicose Veins, to give you a better understanding of what causes varicose veins, how to prevent them and how to manage them if you already have them. In some cases, but not all, surgery is indicated. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Yes, varicose veins often occur in families. The best thing you can do is prevent the veins from being overstretched. Think of them like a rubber balloon.

The way to prevent overstretching is to provide support outside the leg. That is why I think anyone who has to stand long hours for any reason should have some support. This is also a good idea during pregnancy. The developing baby creates pressure on the veins and causes them to become overfilled. However, unless you already have severe varicose veins you do not need to wear support hose as a preventive measure during exercise. Your daughter might need support if she ever takes a standing job or during pregnancy. Never wear anything tight around the thigh that impedes the emptying of the veins either. Other than these measures there isn't much you can do to prevent varicose veins. (NEA)

Five each receive $5 for views

Five readers of The Democrat-Capital will receive $5 apiece for expressing their views about what they would like to see in the newspapers' comics.

In its Oct. 16 edition, The Democrat-Capital asked readers to fill out a form on various comic offerings. More than 200 responded, and the newspaper is now in the process of analyzing the results. "We will take our readers' likes and dislikes into full account as we decide ways to improve our comic package," said editor Doug Kneibert.

Five of the envelopes containing the survey form were selected at random, and $5 checks will go to the following readers:

Kathleen E. Thompson, Route 6; Mrs. Thornton Huff, Tipton; Mrs. J. Michael Reames, 3130 West 10th; Steve Perkins, Platte City, Mo.; and William G. Moss, 2101 South Kentucky.

Padded bids to cost VP of firm $110,000

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — The vice-president of a Kansas City moving company was ordered Tuesday to repay the federal government $110,000 after he pleaded guilty in U.S. District Court to a charge of submitting inflated bids to the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Terry Leroy Schmidt, vice-president of Smitty's Van and Storage, had been charged with 12 counts of submitting padded bids for moving work done during an urban renewal project.

Hybrid roadster

Buddy Channel of Coventry Township, Ohio, sits at the helm of his creation, which he has dubbed the "Volkswagen Trike." Buddy invested $1,000 and spent two weeks constructing and fusing together a front end of a Triumph motorcycle with a functioning back section of a VW. It rides three comfortably but offers no protection against the elements. (UPI)

Project wins local 4-H member trip

Robert Simon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Simon, Route 3, has won an all-expense paid trip to the national 4-H Club Congress in Chicago Nov. 28-Dec. 2, it was announced Wednesday.

Simon received the award for developing the most outstanding record of understanding the principles and theories of electricity of any 4-H'er in Missouri this year.

A member of the Brown 4-H Club for nine years, Simon has served as president, vice president and treasurer of his club and has also served as vice president of the Pettis County 4-H junior leader's group. He has also been a representative on the county 4-H council.

Robert Simon

While in 4-H, Simon has also been involved in welding and has combined his interests in welding and electricity to produce many interesting objects. Some items he has built include lamps, a metal detector and a solar heating unit. Simon has also given demonstrations on electricity for many years, including several presentations at the State Fair 4-H electric theater. For the past two years, he has served as assistant superintendent of the Fair 4-H Building.

A 1977 graduate of Sacred Heart High School, Simon was active in speech and drama and was valedictorian of his class. He is now a freshman at the University of Missouri-Columbia, majoring in agriculture.

Computer error cause of arrest

KANSAS CITY (AP) — "My wife ... must have thought I was going to great lengths to get out of going to the Philharmonic," said Owen W. Anglum III after he was arrested because of a computer error.

Anglum, 37, his wife and two children were just finishing dinner about 7 p.m. Tuesday when two policemen knocked on the door and told him he would have to come to the station to be booked on an arrest warrant.

For some reason, a computer had indicated Anglum was wanted on a state arrest warrant for defrauding the state employment division.

There was no such warrant.

STATE FAIR CENTER — SEDALIA

SFCC production slated next week

The State Fair Community College drama department will present the fall production, "Harvey," at 7:30 p.m. next Tuesday through Saturday in the television studio at the Charles E. Yeater Learning Center on the campus.

Friday and Saturday night productions will be on a "reserved seat only" basis due to limited seating. Reservations may be made by calling the college at 826-7100.

A special preview of the comedy will be at 2 p.m. Sunday for senior citizens. Reservations are not necessary for this performance.

In addition to the live production, members of the media center at the college will videotape the rehearsal this Thursday for future classroom use and for possible broadcast on cable television. This will be the first time an SFCC production has been videotaped.

Blue law may go for many

By SCOTT KRAFT
Associated Press Writer

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Missouri merchants in this border city have seen their customers drive across the state line in droves for 15 years of Sundays to go shopping in Kansas.

Officials say this has been costing Kansas City, Mo., more than $2 million a year in sales tax and other tax revenues. Neighboring Independence estimates it loses about $500,000 a year.

And all because of Missouri's blue law or legal restriction on Sunday sales, which Kansas kicked over in 1962.

For years, efforts have been made to get Missouri in on some of the Sunday action, but to no avail.

Now this could change. On Nov. 8, the voters of Clay, Jackson and Platte counties in Missouri will be able to vote to legalize sales of most merchandise on Sundays.

In 22 states, the blue law prohibits the sale of nonessential goods on Sundays. Only food and certain other goods designated necessities in the statutes can be sold, which forces most large department stores and speciality shops to close their doors on the last day of the weekend.

Designating certain items as necessities is dangerous business, the law's detractors say. Missouri's blue law, for example, allows the sale of guns and ammunition on Sundays but prohibits the sale of baby bottles, hoses and light bulbs.

Both states had similar blue laws until the early 1960s when the supreme courts of the two states ruled the laws void. Missouri responded by adopting a form of the blue law that complied with the supreme court ruling. But Kansas rejected repeated attempts in its legislature to re-enact any form of the law which it passed in 1861.

Before its ban on Sunday sales was ruled unconstitutional, Missouri had the law on its books for 138 years.

Last year, after repeated attempts by Kansas City-area legislators to repeal the law, the Missouri Legislature passed a bill allowing only the three counties in metropolitan Kansas City to vote on the proposal.

Growth of incorporated suburbs in both Missouri and Kansas has long been a sore point with Kansas City, Mo., officials. Right-to-work laws and legal Sunday sales in Kansas are said to have done much to entice shops and industry to the Sunflower State.

Most of the states bordering Missouri—including Arkansas, Illinois, Iowa and Kansas—allow Sunday sales, which makes enforcing the law particularly unpopular near Missouri borders.

At the other side of the state in St. Louis, the legal sale of merchandise on Sunday in western Illinois communities has created less of a stir. Illinois and Missouri are separated by the Mississippi River and access to Illinois stores is slightly more troublesome than access to Kansas stores at the other side of the state.

Until recently, St. Louis' major department stores and the strong retail clerks union had resisted attempts to allow Sunday sales. But the department stores agreed in 1975 not to fight repeal of the blue law, even though they did not agree to support Sunday sales.

State legislators from the St. Louis area have traditionally been reluctant to throw their support behind repeal of the blue law, and fought attempts to include the St. Louis area counties in the recently-passed measure.

Lobby groups traditionally favoring the ban on Sunday sales have included automobile dealers, small retailers, the retail clerks union and Christian organizations. Their reasons vary from not wanting to be forced to work on a Sunday to preserving a day of rest.

State Rep. Phillip Scaglia, D-Kansas City, has led a crusade against the blue law in Missouri since he began his first term in the House 12 years ago. Until last year, his efforts were unsuccessful; it was 1976 before his blue law repeal bills even made it to the floor of the House for debate.

During 1977, he went on the offensive with a push for strict enforcement of the law. He and his workers purchased goods in several Missouri counties on Sundays and took the evidence to local prosecuting attorneys demanding that charges be filed against the stores selling the goods.

The battle plan was intended to create a political climate where Missourians would ask their legislators to repeal the law. The plan worked to the extent that the Missouri General Assembly acquiesced to a repeal referendum for the Kansas City area counties only.

Many blue law advocates in the Bible Belt believe allowing Sunday sales will result in partial abandonment of the family unit's time together on Sundays.

But critics say that argument is weak.

"Sundays, now, are filled with football," says Joe Serviss, Kansas City councilman who favors repeal of the blue law. "Those who go to church on Sunday will continue to go to church on Sunday. Those who go shopping on Sunday will continue to go shopping."

And they'll be buying and paying sales tax in Kansas City and Missouri rather than Kansas, he added.

Snow White and friends... in town Monday

Stage version of fairy tale to be performed here

A live, professional show of "Snow White and Her Seven Magical Dwarfs" will be presented at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the Smith-Cotton High School auditorium.

Local Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 2591 is sponsoring the show.

Performed by the World of Fantasy Players, the show brings to life the traditional story of "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" with a few new twists, including first-time characters such as Freddie the Field Mouse, the Talking Cuckoo Clock and the Funny Bunnies. The show features colorful costumes and is a blend of music, songs, dancing, magical illusions and special effects.

The World of Fantasy Players, now in its 10th year, will appear in 280 cities throughout the U.S. and Canada this year.

Ticket information may be obtained by calling 826-1924. Tickets also will be on sale at the door.

Death ruled as homicide

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — The nude body of a 42-year-old Independence woman was found Tuesday in her blood-stained bed and police were investigating the death of Peggy J. Carpenter as a homicide.

Police said she had wounds on her head but declined to describe them or say whether they caused the death.

"If it is a homicide, only the person who did it would know those things," said Sgt. Al D. Hainen of Independence.

Man charged in cop's death

ST. CHARLES, Mo. (AP) — James M. Davis has been charged with murder in he shotgun slaying of a young St. Charles police officer.

Davis, 33, of St. Charles County, was also charged Tuesday with assault with intent to kill and resisting arrest, authorities said. He was ordered held without bail by county magistrate William Lohmar Jr.

He is accused of shooting 26-year-old Gary Stroud. Stroud, the father of three children, died early Tuesday morning in St. Joseph Hospital in St. Charles. He reportedly was hit in the chest and arm.

Police gave this account of the incident, the second time in a little over a year that a St. Charles police officer has been killed:

Stroud and officer Leslie Simpson arrived at a St. Charles tavern, following reports that a man was flourishing a gun outside. The suspect, who police later identified as Davis, drove off with Stroud in pursuit.

Simpson said he followed only to see Stroud's car stop suddenly at an intersection. He said that when he heard shots, he jumped out of his squad car and emptied his revolver at the suspect, who got back into his car and drove off.

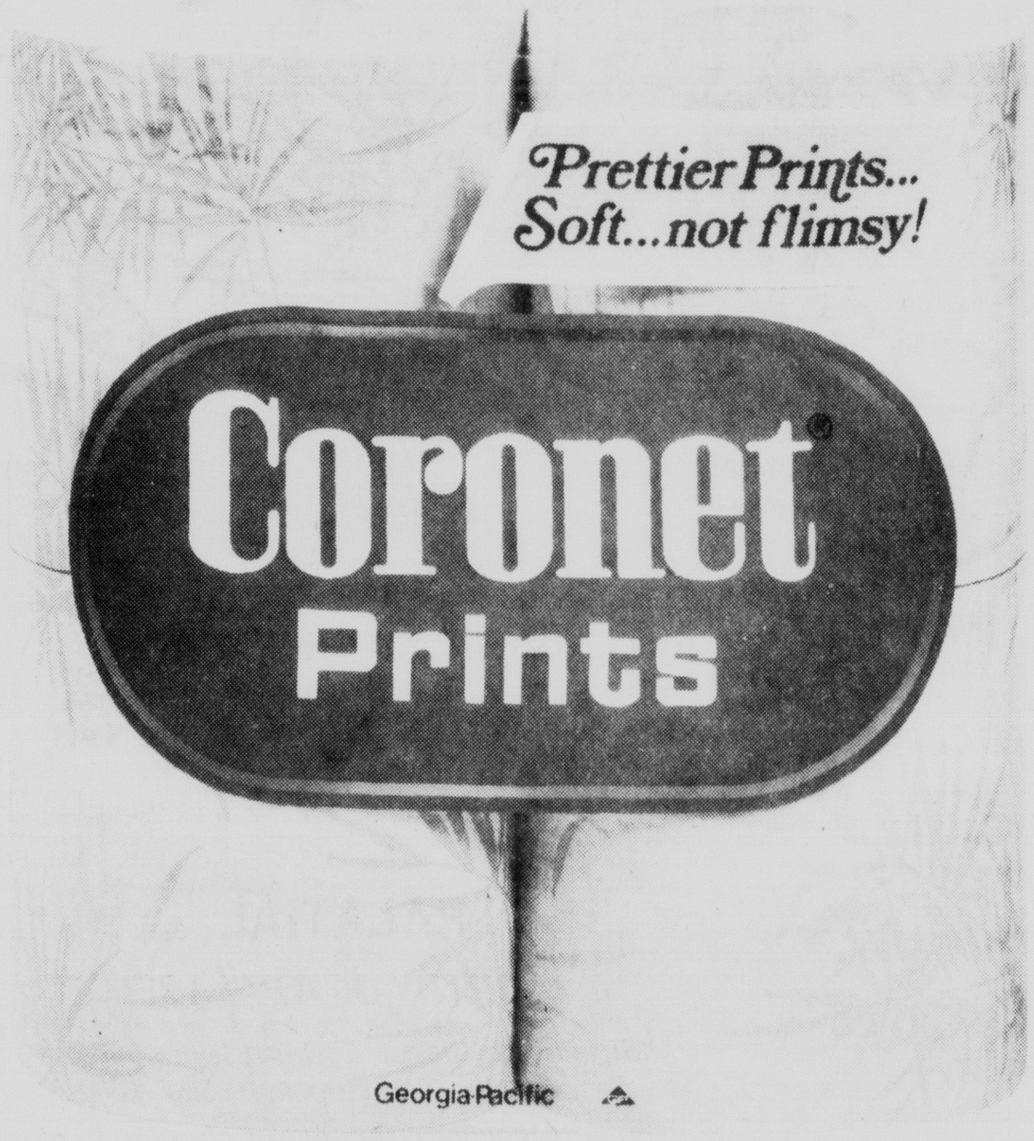

Police said the shotgun blasts that killed Stroud were fired through the windshield.

About 15 minutes later, police received a report that a car had struck a utility pole about a mile from the scene of the shooting. When Simpson and other officers arrived, they found Davis in some bushes, police said. He suffered minor injuries in the wreck.

Lt. Paul Orf said that Davis had four shotguns, two rifles, and a large quantity of ammunition in his car. His occupation was not immediately known.

Procedure change adopted by Board of Education

Meeting in an unusually short session Tuesday, the Board of Education adopted a grievance procedure by which students and parents are able to request that students be removed from the Title I remedial reading program.

No student may be forced to be part of the program and the adoption of such a procedure was only a formality, it was reported.

In other action, the board discussed the possible growth of the district and what measures might be taken in the future.

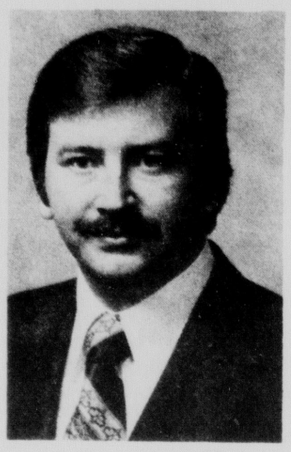

Most of the discussion centered on consolidation. Board member Jack Robinson said he did not feel consolidation was beneficial to the students of the district.

He said he liked a system where several school were located in the city that children could walk to.

Barbara Braverman, another board member, countered that such a concept was not practical and could not be implemented to benefit everyone.

Superintendent of Schools Kem Keithly said consolidation might make it easier to schedule music, art and physical education classes with a smaller number of schools. However, no formal action was taken.

It was also announced that building plans for the district will be studied by a committee appointed by officials of the Parent-Student-Teacher Association. It was not known when the results of that study would be completed.

Manager

Larry R. Baker, 2323 South Missouri, has been named sales manager at Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.'s Sedalia office. He joined the company as an agent in Springfield in 1972 and is a graduate of the Life Underwriters Training Council course. He is a native of Brookfield, Mo., and a graduate of Central Missouri State University, Warrensburg. He is married to the former Kathy Sudduth of Sedalia.

Tito marriage on the rocks?

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Foreign diplomats say the marriage of President Tito and his wife, Jovanka, may be on the rocks because of a rift with reported political overtones.

Mrs. Tito has been out of public view for more than two months, apparently because of the trouble, diplomats said Tuesday.

Reports circulating in the diplomatic community indicate that an investigation of some sort of political activity by Mrs. Tito has gotten under way quietly.

Ford, Nixon won't attend

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — When Republican governors gather for their Western States Conference this week, two former Republican presidents won't be there. Gerald Ford chose not to attend and Richard Nixon wasn't invited.

Halloween's symbols remain with us today

CHICAGO (AP) — If ever there was a holiday with a split personality, it's Halloween.

Though it was the Christians who designated the Oct. 31 date Allhallow's Eve, or "eve of the holy ones' day," in prelude to their Nov. 1 All Saints' Day, it was earlier pagan peoples who gave the annual holiday the sinister meaning and traditions it still holds.

It was the Celts who first chose the date as their New Year's Eve and who originally intended it as a celebration of everything wicked, evil and dead, according to "The World Book Encyclopedia." They believed that paying homage to Samhain, their lord of death, allowed the souls of the dead to return to their earthly homes during that one evening only.

Also during their celebration, the Celts would gather around a community bonfire and offer as sacrifice their animals, their crops, and sometimes themselves. And wearing costumes made from the heads and skins of other animals, they would also tell one another's fortunes for the coming year.

Later, this Halloween fortune-telling would involve baking a coin, a ring, and a thimble in a cake. The person who found the coin, it was believed, would become rich. The one who found the ring would soon marry. And the luckless one who got the thimble would be destined to remain single.

The celebration remained much the same after the Romans conquered the Celts around 43 A.D. The Romans did, however, add a ceremony honoring their goddess of fruit and trees and thus the association with apples and the custom of bobbing for them.

Yet even after the Christians tried to change the meaning of Halloween, the Irish still paraded about in costume, begging for food. The Scots still marched with their torches, in hopes of driving away witches and evil spirits. And the Welsh still threw a marked stone into a huge fire, believing that if their stone was missing the next day, they wouldn't live to see the next Halloween.

It was the Irish and English, says "World Book," who first carved vegetables into jack-o-lanterns.

Many of these ancient traditions still exist. Youngsters still dress in costume and go trick-or-treating: begging, in a sense, for food while promising to refrain from evil deeds. And, too, they still light their candles, although much smaller than a torch, and place them inside their pumpkins.

Although there are few people left who actually believe that the ghosts of the dead roam the earth, or that all witches meet on this one evening, most of the early symbols of Halloween still exist.

Computerized banking explained

Computerized banking by the electronic funds transfer system was explained to members of the Sedalia Rotary Club by Jon Blair, Third National Bank officer in charge of accounting, at the regular Monday noon meeting of the club at the Ramada Inn.

Historically tracing the computer function in banking, Blair noted that computer accounting was about 16 years old and the first 12 years were required to refine the programs so they adequately served the needs of the banking business as has been the case for the past four years.

Now computerized banking is moving into point of sale locations where a great number of business transactions take place daily, Blair stated. A bank customer by using his bank card may soon be able under the electronic funds transfer system to present his card at time of merchandise purchase and through compatible store and bank equipment have an immediate deduction made from his bank account to pay for the purchase and thus eliminate the need for check writing and processing, the speaker reported.

The speaker was introduced by Fred Kingsolver, who arranged the program.

In other club activity, President Bruce McCully announced the Sedalia club placed second in Rotary district 607 in September attendance with an average of 92 per cent.

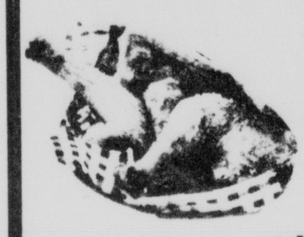

Donald V. Miller and Craig Williams were introduced as new club members by their sponsors, K.U. Love and Ken Hartung.

Guests introduced by the Rev. George Kern were Rotarians Miller T. Hunter, Kukului, Hawaii; George Flippin, Warrensburg; Howard Johnson, Port Allegany, Pa.; and Howard Jones with Kem Keithly.

Nixing interstates for back roads

Driving authority argues against 'shunpiking'

WASHINGTON (AP) — It may be more picturesque, nostalgic and even romantic, but "shunpiking" should be shunned, advises an authority on driving.

In this age of interstate highway travel, it's a diversion to "shunpike," or take the back roads that parallel modern, multi-lane highways.

Those who got their first taste of cross-country driving before the interstates remember the narrow, two-lane roads that weaved from town to town, past apple orchards and billowing wheat fields and windmills that seemed, to a youngster's eyes, to "jump" from one side of the road to the other as the road curved sharply toward them.

A shunpike tour can still be a welcome change, but The Road Information Program (TRIP), a nonprofit research agency here, warns that it adds significantly to driving costs and poses dangers, too.

Half the 3.8 million miles of roads in the country are deficient, and most of those are in out-of-the-way rural areas, the agency says.

TRIP estimates that bad roads increase driving costs 48 percent over those in good condition because frequent slowing and stopping waste gasoline, and rough surfaces shorten the lifespan of steering and suspension systems and other parts.

That means the typical motorist pays an extra $91 a year to drive over deficient roads. Since most bad roads are in rural areas, a back-road tour can be costly, TRIP cautions.

Bad roads do more than increase auto operating costs. TRIP says that, after human error, they're the second leading cause of auto accidents. The agency blames road deficiencies for 3.5 million accidents, or 21.4 percent of the total, and $40.5 billion in losses in 1975.

"Interstate highways are often cursed as swaths of concrete designed to level mountains, dam streams and destroy neighborhoods," says H.W. Reece, the agency's president. "The system is not without its faults, but on balance most people would agree it has been an enormous benefit to society. It moves traffic quickly, safely and economically."

Statistics bear him out. The Federal Highway Administration has found that interstate accident rates are half those of other roads. That's because of their high design standards, which include separated traffic lanes, firm shoulders and gentle curves, Reece adds.

Even the 55-mile-an-hour speed limit has not helped back roads, TRIP reports. Since the limit was introduced in 1974, interstate fatality rates have dropped 37.6 percent, but the decline on local roads and streets was only 3.8 percent. Again, the agency says, better roads supplied the significant margin of safety.

Not all good roads have to be interstates, says Reece. Safe design features can be incorporated into less-traveled roads and streets, but it would be an enormous undertaking and probably require a national consensus similar to that which supported the space program, he explains.

"The interstate system can be likened to a classroom or laboratory," says Reece. "It's taught us all we have to know about making roads safe and less costly to use. Now it's time to apply the lessons."

Tax seminars scheduled

Tax institutes for tax specialists who prepare income tax returns for others will be held Nov. 16-17 in Sedalia and Nov. 18 in Warrensburg.

The seminars, co-sponsored by the University of Missouri-Columbia, the Internal Revenue Service and the Missouri Department of Revenue, will cover both farm and urban tax situations.

Persons interested in pre-enrolling for the institute or in seeking additional information can contact the University of Missouri extension center, 1806 West 11th, 827-0591.

Castle a royal concern

By SUSAN SWARD
Associated Press Writer

IONE, Calif. (AP) — Up in the Sierra foothills sits a 120-room castle with 20 fireplaces. Nobody knows what to do with it, and efforts by local townspeople to restore it have hit a dead end.

A few years ago a newspaper article excited some interest in the site, and a couple from Southern California wrote that they would like to be the castle's baron and baroness.

But nobody — the tiny city of Ione, the rural county of Amador 90 miles east of San Francisco or the State of California — has come up with an idea and any money to take care of the castle, built in the 1890s as a state reform school.

"We're at a dead end. It will just fall down eventually, go to pieces. It's all just leading to decay," says Audrey Miller, the mayor of Ione.

The castle's roof is falling in. Many of its windows are broken. Birds, owls, pigeons and even a fox, are the castle's residents.

Years ago the structure's furnishings were removed by the state and some of the material was used in restoration projects elsewhere.

Back in 1958 the state decided to quit using the old structure and knock it down, but local residents signed a petition and fought the move until the state abandoned the idea.

"It has really become something people expect to see there. It would be understandable if it fell down in the middle of the night," said C.A. Terhune, superintendent of the state-run Preston School of Industry which surrounds the castle.

"But to come in with bulldozers and drop it would cause some heavy concerns," said Terhune, who heads the Youth Authority facility for 400 offenders from 17 to 24.

People get excited about possible uses for the castle when they see it, Terhune says, but the cost of revamping the castle always acts as a "major stumbling block."

This stumbling block has finally become too much for Mrs. Miller. She says she will write the local merchants' association to say the save-the-castle committee should be disbanded.

"The place is infested with pigeons and rodents. It's a bad state of affairs," she said.

Past decade

Chicago museum stresses now art

CHICAGO (AP) — The frequently mystifying, often irritating, but almost always exciting art of the past decade is surveyed by the Museum of Contemporary Art in celebration of its own 10th anniversary.

This lively little museum has been dedicated to the avantgarde since its inception, and until recently had no permanent collection, devoting itself exclusively to changing exhibitions.

This survey includes the work of 80 artists and encompasses the most notable of the varied trends of the period — minimalism, conceptualism, ecological art, earthworks, body works, funk-fantasy, video art, imagism, photorealism.

What has been most striking is the absence of any dominant national or international style during the decade.

The earlier decades of the century have usually had an identifiable style which captured the fancy of artists and the public. The post-World War II decades have been dominated by op, pop and abstract expressionist styles.

But this decade, including the war in Vietnam, has been marked by protest and rebellion, a tearing-down of old icons, a turning-inward. This has resulted in anti-art and intensely private expressions of artistic vision.

The work of most of the artists represented in the exhibition has been shown previously at the museum. Different examples of their work, however, have been selected for the anniversary show.

Public outrage has greeted the work of the minimalists and conceptualists, as it frequently has that of the earthworks and the ecological artists.

As a curator at another museum was overheard to remark about an exhibition, "There is less there than meets the eye."

This, unfortunately, is too often true of the work of the artists in these controversial styles, and the Contemporary's exhibition does little to elucidate these styles.

Some of the most interesting work is that of the photorealists, who paint in great detail and realistically. Catherine Murphy's "View of World Trade Center from Rose Garden" is an exquisite example of this style. And Ralph Goings' "One Eleven Diner," with its Age of Plastic anomie, is another.

Thomas Kovachevich is represented by a beautifully done canvas depicting a fantasy world reminiscent of childhood books and postcards in which animals are dressed as humans doing human things. This picture features a gorilla dressed in a long black satin dress drinking a soft drink.

Ed Paschke's "Blue Flamingo" is another of his brightly colored side-show creatures and is an example of the Chicago imagist style.

Among other artists represented in this landmark exhibition are: Lucas Samaras, Kenneth Noland, Frank Stella, Christo, Donald Judd, Alan Sonfist, Judd Fine, Keith Sonnier, Chris Burden, Vito Acconci, Philip Pearlstein, Larry Poons, Jules Olitski, Chuck Close and Robert Irwin.

Puerto Rican protest

One of 30 Puerto Rican nationalists who took over the Statue of Liberty Tuesday raises his fist while others look on. The unarmed group ousted hundreds of tourists and affixed the flag of Puerto Rico to the statue's forehead and a banner (at right). The demonstrators were arrested Tuesday night after a 9-hour occupation. The group was seeking the release of terrorists serving life prison terms in connection with a 1954 attack on members of Congress.

UNICEF collection scheduled on Sunday

Approximately 100 youngsters from various church youth groups in the city will be trick-or-treating in Sedalia for the United Nations International Childrens Emergency Fund (UNICEF) from 1 to 8 p.m. Sunday.

Each UNICEF trick-or-treater will carry an orange collection carton for proper identification. This special UNICEF fund-raising effort, conducted throughout the world on Halloween for 27 years, provides money for various UNICEF services to more than 100 underdeveloped nations around the world.

UNICEF helps these countries in many ways. In Thailand, for example, UNICEF is helping combat severe health problems among children in rural areas. Here, UNICEF funds are helping train midwives, paramedical personnel and village health volunteers to bring basic health services to the countryside. Also UNICEF provides medical supplies and even bicycles and motorcycles to enable health workers to reach remote areas. In the drought-stricken West African nation of Senegal, UNICEF is helping establish health and nutrition centers, schools and practical training facilities. It is also sponsoring the digging of wells and training of midwives, child-care personnel, teachers and other community workers.

The local UNICEF trick-or-treat drive is being sponsored by the Pettis County Ministers Association. Persons wishing to contribute to the program are requested to turn on their porch light.

Middle school panel sets second meeting

The second meeting of the steering committee for the middle school will be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the junior high school. The meeting is open to the public.

The committee is composed of parents of elementary school students, teachers and administrators. A number of topics are to be studied, including curriculum.

Members of the panel include Howard Jones, assistant superintendent in charge of curriculum; Robert Revis, assistant principal at the junior high; Larry Smithson, junior high principal; William Rose, counselor at the school; and teachers Charlotte Garrett, James Piatt, Marty Bechtold, Delta Russell, Aileen Hemick, Shirley Royal, Betty Bob Jones, Marianne Hunter and Joyce Heeren.

Parents on the committee are Mrs. Ginger Swearingen, Mrs. Jan Ragar, Barbara Scott, Sheila Triplett, Mrs. Susan Garlich, Mrs. Rhoda Moore, Herbert Bellmer, Dr. Daryl Payne, Mrs. Linda O'Brian, Mrs. Geraldine Harris, Max Coble, Gene Leiss and the Rev. Marvin Albright.

Members of the school board have been invited to each meeting, according to Smithson. He said three of the six members attended the last meeting, but did not know if they would attend this meeting.

Pentagon identifies remains

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon Tuesday identified 20 U.S. Air Force and Navy fliers and one U.S. civilian whose remains were turned over to the United States by the Vietnamese government nearly a month ago.

One body still has not been identified at the U.S. Military Center in Honolulu where experts have been working since after the remains were picked up in Hanoi by a U.S. delegation on Sept. 30.

Defense records show that 702 military personnel are still listed as missing in the Southeast Asia war, with 1,803 carried on the books as presumed dead but whose bodies have never been recovered.

The newly returned remains include 17 Air Force officers, 3 Navy lieutenants and civilian Tucker Gougelman of Montclair, N.J.

The newly repatriated remains were those of men who vanished on missions dating as far back as March 1966, nearly 12 years ago.

Following are the names of men whose remains were identified:

Navy Lt. Walter O. Estes II, Williamston, Mich.

Navy Lt. James E. Teague, Jonesboro, Ark.

Navy Lt. Richard C. Thum, Cleveland, Ohio.

Air Force Maj. Joseph W. Brand, Chicago.

Air Force Capt. Donald E. Clark Jr. Lynchburg, Va.

Air Force Maj. Clyde D. Dawson, Fond du Lac, Wis.

Air Force Capt. Samuel Fantle III, Sioux Falls, S.D.

Air Force 1st Lt. Bennie L. Fryer, Logan, Utah.

Air Force Capt. Lawrence H. Golberg, Duluth, Minn.

Air Force 1st Lt. Allen U. Graham, Helena, Ark.

Air Force Capt. James A. Hockridge, Jacksonville, Fla.

Air Force Maj. Robert A. Lodge, New York City.

Air Force Maj. Arthur S. Mearns, Flushing, Long Island, N.Y.

Air Force Capt. Robert J. Morris Jr., St. Louis.

Air Force Col. William H. Nelson, Filion, Mich.

Air Force Capt. Craig A. Paul, Columbus, Ohio.

Air Force Maj. Donald M. Singer, Newark, N.J.

Air Force Capt. Warren R. Spencer, Martinsville, Ind.

Air Force Capt. Nutter J. Winbrow III, Berlin, Md.

Air Force Capt. Charles C. Winston III, Peekskill, N.Y.

Action agencies share weatherproofing grants

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Community action agencies across the state will share in nearly $600,000 in federal grants to weatherize some 1,800 homes of low-income elderly or handicapped persons.

Officials predicted that the insulation program would save an estimated 27 billion British Thermal Units of fuel during the first year.

Receiving the funds were:

—Central Missouri Counties Human Development Corp. in Columbia, $29,222.

—Community Services Inc. of Northwest Missouri in Maryville, $22,703.

—Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corp. in Portageville, $33,233.

—East Missouri Action Agency Inc. in Flat River, $34,128.

—Economic Opportunity Corp. of Greater St. Joseph, $26,106.

—Economic Security Corp. of Southwest Area in Joplin, $32,552.

—Green Hills Human Resources Corp. of Trenton, $36,958.

—Human Resource Corp. of Clay, Platte and Jackson counties, $72,558.

—Jefferson-Franklin Community Action Corp. in Hillsboro, $23,778.

—Missouri Ozarks Economic Opportunity Corp. in Richland, $26,034.

—Missouri Valley Human Resource Development Corp. in Corder, $32,338.

—North East Community Action Coalition in Bowling Green, $47,380.

—Northeast Missouri Community Action Agency in Kirksville, $21,235.

—Ozark Action Inc. in West Plains, $27,073.

—Ozarks Area Community Action Corp. in Springfield, $56,548.

Carl Rowan

South Africa emulates Nazi Germany

WASHINGTON — The recent news from South Africa ought to leave no sensitive American with doubt that the spiritual heirs of Adolf Hitler are on the loose in that tragic country.

Rowan

The oppressive Vorster regime, racist almost to the point of insanity, has now put the screws of tyranny on every group that speaks for South Africa's black majority of 18 million. It has closed down the nation's two leading black newspapers, dragging the editor of one into imprisonment, without a charge, as though he were nothing more than a barking dog. It has banned the interracial organizations, including religious groups, that have dared to criticize the Afrikaaners' policies of Hitlerite racism. It has banned a white editor and raided the homes and offices of students, lawyers, priests, scholars who were even suspected of opposing South Africa's policy of white supremacy forever.

Vorster has said, in so many words, to the 200 million black people of Africa: "You blacks are going to have to accept these racial insults because you are too disunited, too weak, too dumb ever to pose a military threat to us."

Nigeria, Kenya, Zambia, Zaire will not soon declare war on South Africa. But one day or one year they will be heard from. They will encourage internal uprisings inside South Africa akin to the Mau Mau revolt in Kenya, producing a time when no Afrikaaner will be able to trust his cook or yardboy. Grisly urban terrorism is now inevitable in South Africa. This will all be met by more oppression, of course, but that repression will produce more black retribution in the night, more bombs exploding in Johannesburg and Cape Town, and eventually, cross-border guerrilla raids.

Vorster has said to Jimmy Carter, in so many words, "All your talk about human rights and majority rule bores us, angers us and is really irrelevant, because the U.S. is impotent. You and the British can't impose your views on tiny Rhodesia, so why should we worry about your hollow threats against us."

Vorster may be right, for the prospect is that the Carter administration (and the Congress, if any meaningful proposal ever gets that far) will become bogged down in philosophical arguments about "what will be effective, and what will be counterproductive."

If Mr. Carter's stand on human rights is to retain any meaning anywhere on earth, he has got to take strong action to show U.S. revulsion to this latest Vorster outrage. We ought to keep our ambassador out indefinitely, close down consulates, halt all Export-Import Bank guarantees of commercial loans to South Africa, ban further investments in South Africa, maintain a strict embargo on U.S. arms sales to South Africa and deny U.S. military, economic or other aid to any country that provides arms or atomic weapons technology to South Africa.

South Africa has gotten Mirage fighter planes and other arms from France, plus substantial arms from Italy and Israel. France and West Germany have been cooperating with South Africa on "peaceful" nuclear research, and U.S. officials have evidence leading them to believe that both France and Israel are secretly cooperating with South Africa on the development of nuclear weapons.

The U.S. ought to announce regularly what it knows about which countries are "playing footsie" with South Africa, including what kind of cooperation Vorster is getting from African countries like the Ivory Coast, Gabon, Malawi.

Only this kind of action will convince Vorster that the U.S. and its stand on human rights are not "irrelevant."

But can President Carter get the Congress and the American people to go along with actions that mean something? There are a lot of Americans, some in Congress, who secretly approve of apartheid and who in their hearts are not troubled by anything South Africa's whites might do to retain it. These Americans won't say openly that they like apartheid and white minority dominance, but they will fill the air with amoral platitudes designed to ensure that the U.S. turns out to be just as impotent as Vorster thinks it is.

South Africa has become a malignancy on the heart of all mankind. But in day-to-day terms, it has become a moral and political challenge to Jimmy Carter. How he meets Vorster's thumb-in-the-nose dare will reveal a lot about the makings of our President.

Violation of rights by Israel

By MARTHA ANGLE and ROBERT WALTERS

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Deportation, confiscation, racial discrimination, detention without trial — these are ugly words for ugly practices.

We hear a lot about such human rights violations these days in nations from South Africa to the Soviet Union. We condemn them, and we expect the U.S. government to do likewise.

But we hear little and say less about the sometimes brutal deprivation of human rights taking place on the West Bank, Gaza, the Sinai — in all the occupied Arab territories now controlled by Israel.

On the whole, we prefer not to know.

Israel is special. No other nation can match its claims on the emotional allegiance of the American people. No other nation even approaches its clout with the American government, especially the Congress.

That is why there was something extraordinary about a Senate subcommittee hearing this month on the plight of Arabs living on the West Bank and other occupied territories Israel has held for the past decade.

Witnesses with names like Salim Tamari, Ibrahim Bakkak and Fawzi Al-Asmar do not appear very often on Capitol Hill. Most members of Congress would prefer not to confront the kind of testimony such men can present.

But Sen. James Abourezk, D-S.D., is different. Of Lebanese descent, he is the only member of Congress both openly critical of Israel and openly supportive of the Palestinian Arabs.

And Abourezk is determined that his colleagues and his countrymen shall know what is happening with the establishment of Jewish settlements on the West Bank, the area most often pinpointed as the logical site for a Palestinian homeland once an overall Middle East peace is established.

For two days, Arab witnesses told the Senate refugee subcomittee of which Abourezk is a member how the Israeli government has confiscated Arab lands in the occupied territories to build settlements where only Jews may live.

They testified that Arab intellectuals, university professors, engineers and other professionals have been subjected to midnight interrogations, house arrest, months of detention without trial and even deportation without the slightest exercise of due process.

They charged that Arab workers are hired as "cheap labor" to construct Jewish settlements at wages that average 40 per cent less than those paid to Israelis.

They said Arabs are being driven from their homes and their lands by critical shortages of housing and employment, while Jewish settlers arrive in ever-growing numbers. Those who leave, desperate to find a means to support their families, usually are not permitted to return, they claimed.

Their testimony was corroborated by an Israeli citizen, Dr. Israel Shahak, a law professor at Hebrew University, who denounced government violations of the rights of West Bank Arabs.

"The two most significant aspects of those violations," Shahak said, "appear to be the confiscation of land, carried out in a particularly cruel and unjust way, and the creation of a regime of inequality and racist discrimination."

It was disturbing testimony, unpleasant in the extreme for those who prefer to believe that Israel can do no wrong. But it was important.

The Palestinian question, now more than ever, remains the key to a peace settlement in the Middle East. Israeli colonization of the West Bank, and the distressing human and civil rights violations that have accompanied it, can only be viewed as an obstacle to peace.

Local rights panel: let it do its job

There was such a consensus for a grand jury investigation at Monday night's council meeting, it seems a shame not to go along. But we are inclined to favor a continuation — and a beefing up — of the probe already underway by Sedalia's own Human Rights Commission (HRC).

Meeting informally Monday night to consider various courses of action in the wake of Friday night's incident at the Anthony Buckner Apartments, the council voted 6-2 for the grand jury route. This course had been asked by the local NAACP chapter, which is representing local blacks who feel they were victimized by the police.

Councilman Vit, however, urged that the council wait and see what the HRC comes up with before plunging ahead and calling for a county grand jury investigation. This makes sense. It is a fundamental axiom of legal procedure that you start with the panel of closest jurisdiction. The issue at hand strikes us as being well within the jurisdiction of the rights commission.

The HRC, however, will be only as effective as the City Council wants it to be. While it can take sworn testimony, it lacks subpoena power, and would have to go through the City Council to achieve this. (The original ordinance gave the HRC this power, but that was changed when city ordinances were codified in 1969.)

As its chairman explained Monday night, the HRC is currently investigating the incident at the Buckner apartments, and is attempting to get both sides' stories. But now, as Police Chief William Miller explained at the meeting, with the prosecuting attorney considering state charges against some of the apartment occupants, HRC access to individual policemen may prove difficult.

Despite some of these problems, an investigation on the city level still has definite advantages over seeking a grand jury investigation. For one thing, there is no guarantee a grand jury would be convened. Then there is the question of the high cost involved. Most important of all, it could be as long as three months before a grand jury could get down to business. This is too long to wait.

Based on information that has already come to light, some serious questions have been raised about the Friday night episode. These involve matters of police procedure, fundamental civil rights, and the whole area of relations between Sedalia's black community and law enforcement officials.

If the city will accept the buck and enable the biracial Human Rights Commission to do its job, some answers might be found to the nagging questions that have been raised.

Student deadbeats now work for HEW

WASHINGTON — The government is cracking down on 680,000 Americans who have failed to pay back their student loans. Ironically, thousands of these deadbeats have used their government-financed education to land jobs with federal bureaucracies.

Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Joseph Califano is considering whether to hire debt collection agencies to recoup the more than $900 million in outstanding loan payments. This is the first concerted effort by the government to collect the taxpayers' money on these bad loans.

Califano doesn't like the idea of hiring private debt collectors, but he thinks it is better than creating another government bureaucracy to pursue the delinquents.

Within a few days, Califano will feed the name of the debtors, including those who work for Uncle Sam, into an HEW computer. He will send them collection letters as the first step. Already, the HEW chief has discovered over 300 workers in his own department who have defaulted on their student loans.

For years, no one has bothered to pursue the 680,000 debt-skippers. The lending institutions failed to vigorously chase them down because the loans were guaranteed by the government. And the bureaucrats were content to issue an occasional press release bemoaning the lack of repayment.

Footnote: HEW once launched a probe into fraudulent schools that were pocketing money from students who never went to class, but it petered out after a few token cases were prosecuted.

PROLIFERATION POLITICS: President Carter came into the White House as an apostle of nuclear non-proliferation. He has startled some of his friends on Capitol Hill, therefore, by maneuvering behind the scenes to water down legislation that would curtail the spread of nuclear arms.

For years, the United States has sought to export its nuclear technology for peaceful purposes without, at the same time, giving foreign lands the ingredients for a nuclear arsenal. At last, a formula was worked out earlier this year by Sens. John Glenn, D-Ohio; Jacob Javits, R-N.Y.; Charles Percy, R-Ill.; and Abraham Ribicoff, R-Conn., with Rep. Jonathan Bingham, D-N.Y.

They pieced together legislation that would set up guidelines, some immediately, others effective in 18 months, which would cut off U.S. nuclear exports to nations developing nuclear weapons. The bill would make it mandatory to halt nuclear shipments to any country that diverted nuclear material to weapons, conducted nuclear weapons tests, failed to provide adequate security for U.S.-supplied material or disregarded other safeguards.

Carter called for many of these same measures during his presidential campaign. The bill's backers, therefore, expected to have his support. But they didn't reckon with Energy Secretary James Schlesinger, who persuaded the President to offer his own legislation.

Schlesinger came out of the old Atomic Energy Commission where he developed into an advocate and apologist for nuclear energy. Parts of the measure he pushed upon the President, indeed, might well have been written by the nuclear industry, which stands to make billions from U.S. export of nuclear technology and materials.

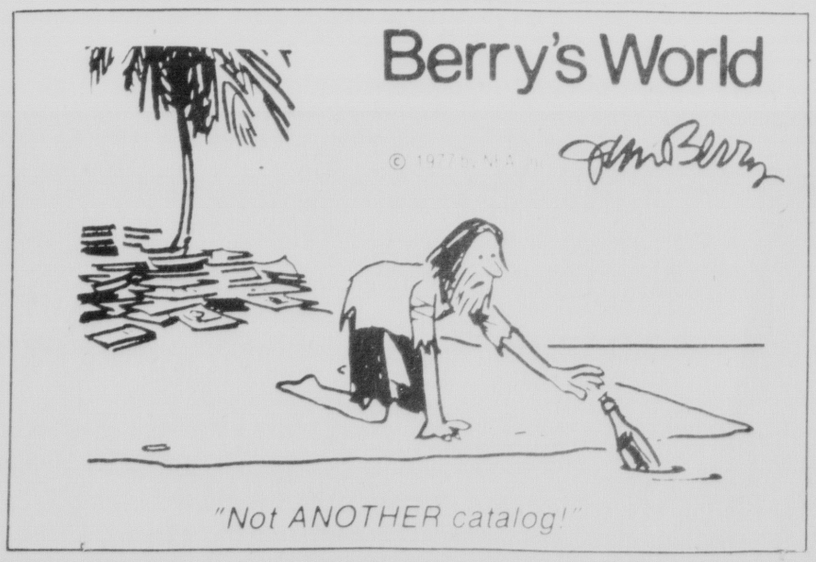

The Schlesinger bill, which was quietly drafted by his staff, would substitute vague "goals" in place of mandatory controls. Both Schlesinger and the State Department dispatched lobbyists to Capitol Hill to push the watered-down measure and to kill the stronger legislation.

The lobbyists included such big guns as Joseph Nye, Louis Nosenzo and Gerard Smoth. One referred contemptuously to the tough bill with its 18-month cut-off provision, as the "18-month guillotine." After one grimly polite session with Senate staff members, the lobbyists also implied that the President might veto any legislation that went too far to suit him.

The White House persuaders were joined by lobbyists from Westinghouse, General Electric and the American Nuclear Energy Council, an industrial trade group. Westinghouse alone fielded a full team of lobbyists on Capitol Hill.

With the White House and nuclear industry working in tandem, members of the key Senate committees began to buckle. Sens. James McClure, R-Idaho; Pete Dominici, R-N.M.; Cliff Hansen, R-Wyo.; and Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., quickly sided with the industry. But Sens. Frank Church, D-Idaho, and Richard Stone, D-Fla., also joined the conservative Republicans to weaken the bill.

Now the tattered bill, which passed the House in a stronger version, is on its way to the full Senate.

Ads may help young lawyers more than public

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Legal professionals are split over whether lawyer advertising will actually benefit consumers. But they are confident that when ads begin in January at least young attorneys will be helped by advertising.

"It was kind of an experimental thing and we'll just have to watch and see if it's worthwhile," Missouri Supreme Court Chief Justice J. P. Morgan said on Tuesday after the high court approved the rules allowing lawyer ads.

"I just don't think it will be too helpful to the consumer," Morgan added. "But it may be helpful to the young lawyers and if that's true that's enough to make me favor it."

James Sullivan, director of the state Department of Consumer Affairs, said the new rules allowing limited types of advertisements should help persons who shop around before hiring a lawyer.

But Sullivan along with Kansas City attorney James Wirken, who represents young lawyers on the Missouri Bar Board of Governors, warned that looking for the cheapest price could also mean getting less than quality legal service.

"I think there is a substantial enough difference in fees so if somebody shops around they are going to wind up getting a better price," Wirken said.

"But I hope when they shop around they not only get a better price but an equal quality job," he added. "The problem that you get into in just talking about fees is that the quality of legal service can also vary from lawyer to lawyer."

Morgan discounted the possibility of attorneys getting into "price cutting" wars, noting that an attorney's costs are pretty fixed because of office space, secretarial help, library services and other things.

But both Sullivan and Wirken predicted that at least in the case of routine legal services such as wills or tax returns, lawyers will become more competitive.

"Wills will be the subject of a great deal of competition, so will simple divorces, because the degree of experience and expertise in both of those areas is not as great or intense as it is in some of the more complex areas of the law," Sullivan said.

Wirken speculated that lawyers just beginning their practices may cut fees on routine matters drastically to build up business.

"In an attempt to get an established clientele, he might do it for a loss just to get the warm body in the door," Wirken said. "There are tons and tons of simple legal matters that a young guy out of school can certainly do just as well as anybody else."

No one would speculate on just how many of the state's 10,000 attorneys would begin placing ads when the new rules take effect. Morgan said he expected on a small number, although admitted that "if any substantial percentage starts it off as a way of life in the law practice, others may be forced to advertise just to keep up."

Wade Baker, executive director of the Missouri Bar, said the experience in other states has been that initially there is "a flurry of ads and then they taper off."

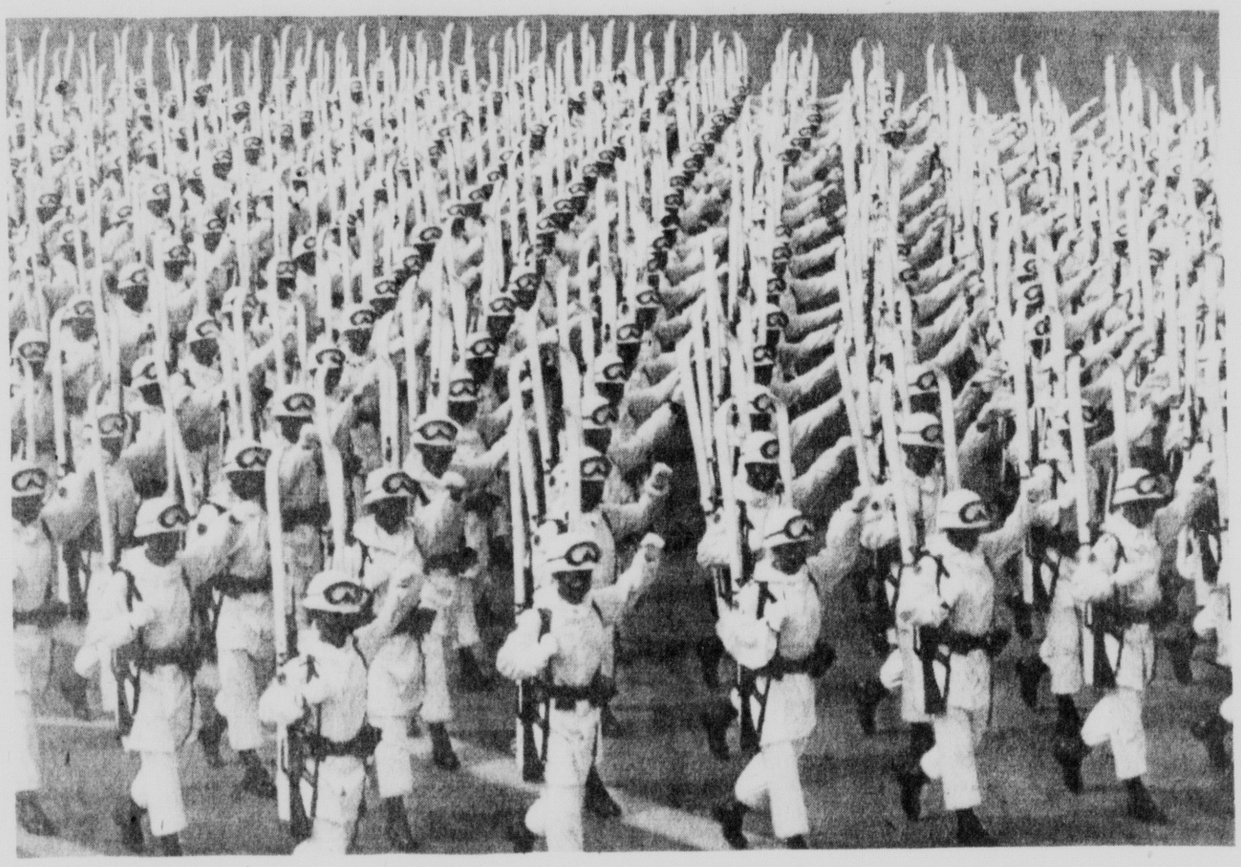

Baker said he would not expect any of the established law firms in the state to advertise at all.

The new rules, effective Jan. 1, permit lawyers to advertise in newspapers, magazines or telephone directories but prohibit radio or television advertising.

The ads can include the price for an initial 30-minute consultation and fixed charges for a number of routine services. Those services include uncontested divorces, uncontested adoptions, uncontested personal bankruptcy, a simple will, tax returns, a simple name change, a simple deed or warranty, a simple promisory note and a simple power of attorney.

The Missouri Bar Advisory Committee, which will monitor compliance with the rules, can approve inclusion in ads of any special field a lawyer is competent in. The ads can also include the availability of credit payment plans, the educatonal background of the lawyer and the fact that a full schedule of charges is available upon request.

Drafted by a special committee of the Missouri Bar, the new advertising rules are more restrictive than those recommended by the American Bar Association. They were approved by the state Supreme Court as a result of a U.S. Supreme Court decison in June overturning the traditional ban on professional advertising.

Scaled-down tax study wins approval of state commission

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A scaled-down study of Missouri's tax structure was approved Tuesday by the state Tax Structure Study Commission.

Members of the commission said even though financial constraints had forced the scope of the study to be reduced, they wanted to be able to produce some document to help state lawmakers develop possible revision of Missouri's tax laws.

The study will cover various areas of taxation, including who actually pays the various state taxes and proposals to change the tax structure.

The 12-member commission was set up by the legislature this year to determine whether current taxes are equitable and to recommend revisions of the tax structure. The commission is made up of four members from both the House and Senate and four members from the general public.

It is scheduled to make its first report to the governor and the General Assembly by mid-February.

Originally, the commission had expected to have a $270,000 grant available through the National Science Foundation, but in September that fell through, according to Dr. Edward Robb, an economist at the University of Missouri.

Robb presented the commission with an alternative plan for a study which would have produced a detailed "model" so lawmkaers could see what effect changes in the tax structure would cause throughout the state's economy.

However, some committee members said they felt Robb's proposal was too complicated and might not be ready in time for the next session to get much value from it.

Rep. George Donegan, R-Springfield, said he felt Robb's proposal was too "theoretical." Any study approved by the commission should be a "plain ... nuts and bolts report" which lawmakers could use in formulating tax policies, Donegan said.

Rep. Steve Gardner, D-Ballwin, suggested the commission okay at least a scaled-down study so the legislature would have some document to work with.

Commission Chairman Sen. Norman Merrell, D-Monticello, said without the National Science Foundation money the committee had far less money to devote to the tax structure study.

The commission's appropriation was for $50,000 less its expenses, Merrell said.

Sears recalls whirlpool baths

CHICAGO (AP) — Some 2,100 hand and foot whirlpool baths sold by Sears, Roebuck and Co., since Sept. 15 have been recalled because of a potential electrical-shock hazard.

The company announced the recall Tuesday.

It said the manufacturer, Dazey Products Co., of Industrial Airport in Kansas City, Kan., discovered during routine testing that a crack may develop in the plastic motor housing, allowing water to make contact with the motor.

The models, retailing for about $27 in Sears catalog and retail outlets throughout the United States, were manufactured from Sept. 13 through Sept. 30 this year. The compact whirlpool baths are for elbows, hands and feet.

Owners were advised to check the date code on the plastic motor housing of the unit above the electrical cord exit. The affected units are identified by these date codes: C97, D97, E97, C977, D977 or E977. The model number, located on a metal plate on the front of the motor housing, is 638.2262.

All other Sears compact and full-size whirlpool baths, including model number 638.2262 with different date codes than those listed, are approved for sale and operation.

Sears said owners of the affected models should discontinue use at once and contact their nearest Sears outlet for replacement or refund.

Baptist delegates defer action

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — Delegates to the Missouri Baptist Convention meeting in Springfield Tuesday deferred until next year a proposal to withdraw from a state grants program because of Missouri requirements banning religious discrimination.

The proposal would have resulted in Baptist affiliated colleges ending participation in the Missouri Public Assistance Grants Program by 1981.

By a 589-379 standing vote, the delegates adopted a measure proposed by the Rev. F.R. Cole of Raytown, calling for further study of "the unanswered questions concerning the broad implications of governmental assistance or subsidization of Missouri Baptist agencies, institutions, churches and individuals.

Earlier in the day, the delegates, meeting at the First Baptist Church, elected the Rev. Paul Swabley, pastor of South Haven Baptist Church, Springfield, as president of the convention by acclamation.

He succeeds Milton Morales of Independence.

Swabley has spent 23 years as a minister including the past seven and a half in Springfield. He attended Southwest Baptist College in Boliver and was graduated from Southwest Missouri State University and Midwestern Seminary.

Cole's proposal replaced a recommendation that participation be ended by July 1, 1981, in public assistance programs requiring non-discrimination on a religious basis in hiring administrators, staff or faculty at Baptist institutions. The recommendation was made by a study committee of Baptist colleges.

The committee's concern centered on the Missouri Student Grant Program, which requires non-discrimination in hiring.

The Rev. Homer Carter, chairman of the committee, told delegates the committee is concerned about the students who would suffer if participation were ended, but he also said the committee is worried about "potential threats of government agencies weakening our colleges."

Young ballerina adds a new role

MOSCOW (AP) — Nadezhda Pavlova, the fastest-rising young ballerina of the Bolshoi Theater, added a new role to her repertoire Tuesday night, dancing the lead in Tchaikovsky's "Sleeping Beauty."

Pavlova, 21, burst onto the theatrical scene four years ago from the small Urals city of Perm to win the prestigious Bolshoi competition.

Since then she has danced the leads in "Giselle," "Nutcracker" and "Spartacus," in which she premiered just last season.

Her husband, Vyacheslav Gordeyev, 29, is her partner in "Sleeping Beauty" as he was in "Spartacus."

THE OLDEST CHURCH IN THE WORLD!
•THE NEW TESTAMENT CHURCH
•ESTABLISHED BY CHRIST
•CONTROLLED BY HIS WILL

The church Jesus built exists in the world today. It exists anywhere people abandon human opinions about religion and submit entirely and completely to the teaching of the New Testament. You can identify Christ's Church in the world today. Read what the Bible says on the name we are to wear, the worship we are to offer God, the work of Christians, worshipping and working in exact conformity to the Word of God, without human creeds or catechisms, without additions, subtractions or substitutions to the things taught in the Scripture, you will have found the Lord's church. It is in the world today!

"Upon this rock I will build by church," Matthew 16:18. Jesus promised to build a church-it was to be his church. In Mark 9:1 Christ said this kingdom (church) would come with power. After His resurrection Jesus told His apostles to wait in Jerusalem for the power, Acts 1:4-8. The power came on the first Pentecost day following the resurrection of Christ and the church was established on that day, according to the second chapter of Acts. Jesus is both the founder and the foundation of the church one reads about in the New Testament. "Other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ," I Corinthians 3:11. Any church established by any person other than Christ, at any other time than the first Pentecost after the Lord's resurrection, is not the New Testament church. The church of Christ is over 1900 years old!

Cy Young Award brings relievers recognition

NEW YORK (AP) — After shutting a lot of doors during the 1977 baseball season, Sparky Lyle has opened a new one for relief pitchers.

"Maybe now they (relief pitchers) will start to be recognized after sweating blood out there in the bullpen day after day," says the New York Yankees pitcher. "I think that now people will stop and think about all the short-inning men who have worked so hard in this game."

Lyle was equally proud of his achievement of winning the American League Cy Young Award Tuesday as he was of bringing a new status to his breed.

"That's the best part of it — I'm happy not only for myself but for what it does for relief pitchers," said Lyle after becoming the first reliever in the American League to win the prestigious award.

"By me winning it does a lot of good for all relief pitchers. It gives them more recognition and it means people are beginning to realize the importance of relief pitchers. That's what this award means to me."

The only previous reliever to win the Cy Young award as best pitcher in his league was Mike Marshall of the National League's Los Angeles Dodgers in 1974.

Lyle, who had 26 saves to go with a 13-5 record, finished with 56½ points to edge Baltimore's Jim Palmer, a three-time winner who received 48 points in the voting by the Baseball Writers Association of America. Strikeout king Nolan Ryan of the California Angels was third with 46 points.

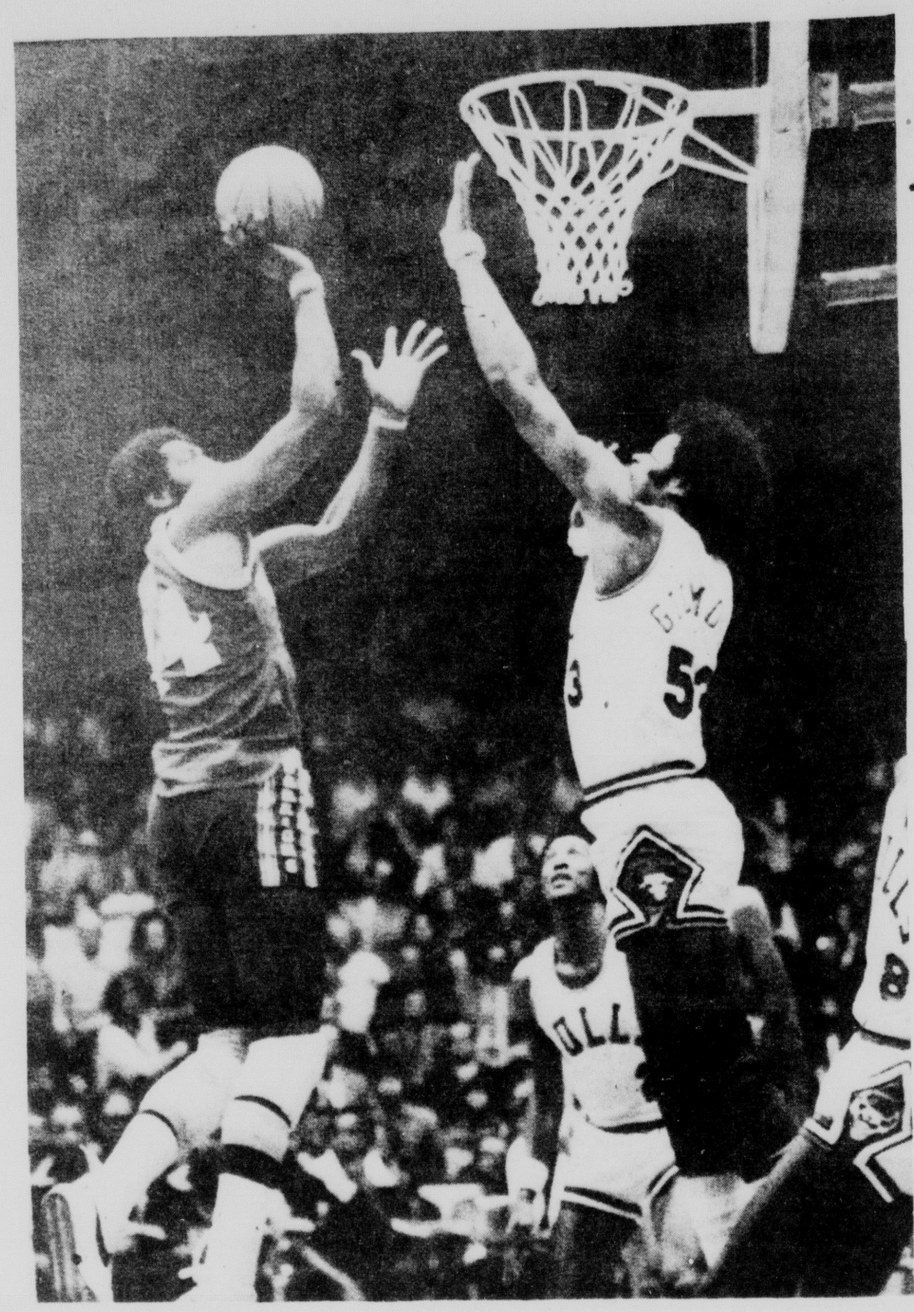

Lyle collected nine first-place votes, three for second and 2½ for third place from 28 BBWAA writers, two in each American League city. The point system awards five for first, three for second and one for third.

Other AL pitchers receiving votes included, Kansas City's Dennis Leonard, 45; Boston's Bill Campbell, 25½; Minnesota's Dave Goltz, 19; New York's Ron Guidry, 5, and Dave Rozema of Detroit, 4.

"When I got a telephone call about the award, I was so choked up I couldn't talk," said Lyle. "I was so nervous ... and at the same time, so happy."

The 33-year-old Lyle, for long one of the majors' best relief pitchers, led the Yankees to the AL East title for the second straight year, appearing in 72 games. Along the way, he carved out a league-leading 2.17 earned run average.

Lyle's victories in Games 4 and 5 of the AL playoffs against Kansas City sent the league champions into the World Series, where the reliever picked up the opening-game victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Sixers whip Kings

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Doug Collins says he was in a slump until the Kansas City Kings came to town.

Against the Kings, the guard came alive to score a game-high 31 points and lead the Philadelphia 76ers to a 112-104 National Basketball Association victory. It was Philadelphia's second win of the season, against one loss.

"I got my game going when George McGinnis passed to me and I put the ball in," he recalled. "From then on, I was pretty much in stride and left my slump behind me."

The 76ers drew away in the second period, leading by as many as 21 points and ending the half in front by 19 (55-36).

Philadelphia went ahead to stay when McGinnis tapped in a field goal with 30 seconds left in the first quarter to make the score 21-20.

Kansas City closed to within five points (105-100) on two consecutive field goals by rookie Otis Birdsong with 2:24 left. But Philadelphia's Julius Erving sank a layup and Henry Bibby tallied with a long jumper to make it 109-100 with 1:52 left.

"We made too many turnovers and shot a poor percentage in the first half," said Coach Phil Johnson, whose Kings have a 1-4 record so far this season. "I didn't think we did a very good job of playing defense in the first half. We played a lot better in the second."

Philadelphia Coach Gene Shue said the game was decided in the first half.

L.A.'s Lasorda named N.L. manager of year

NEW YORK (AP) — Tom Lasorda, head cheerleader of baseball's "Sunshine Boys," the Los Angeles Dodgers, was named the National League's Manager of the Year today.

The vibrant Lasorda won the award as easily as his team took the National League pennant this past season — scoring a landslide victory over seven competitors.

Lasorda, who preached "love and togetherness" while leading the Dodgers to the National League pennant in his rookie year, collected 338 votes from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters polled by The Associated Press.

Herman Franks of the Chicago Cubs, Lasorda's closest competitor, wasn't even in the same ballpark with 39 votes.

Danny Ozark, whose Philadelphia Phillies won the East title before losing to the Dodgers in the NL playoffs, finished third in the voting with 32.

Houston's Bill Virdon was fourth with 8 votes, followed by Vern Rapp of the St. Louis Cardinals, 2; Sparky Anderson of the Cincinnati Reds, 2, and San Diego's Alvin Dark and Pittsburgh's Chuck Tanner, 1 each.

Lasorda, a longtime loyal organization man who "bleeds Dodger Blue," inherited the manager's job upon the retirement of the venerable Walter Alston last year.

The change was noticeably dramatic, both in terms of managerial personality and artistic accomplishment. A flamboyant, free-wheeling character with a repertoire of one-line jokes, Lasorda was a distinct contrast to Alston's quiet, meditative ways.

Lasorda's reaction to getting the job on Sept. 29, 1976, was typical of things to come.

"I've got this terrible weight problem," he said. "I can't 'weight' to get started."

Lasorda continued to bombard his Dodgers and newsmen alike with similar stuff all through the 1977 season. At one point during the year when he truly had a weight problem, the whimsical Lasorda quipped: "I'm on a seafood diet. I eat everything I see."

Lasorda's accomplishment, though, was no joke. He brought a renewed spirit to a team that finished 10 games behind the Cincinnati Reds in the 1976 West race. Lasorda stormed into the Los Angeles spring training camp at Vero Beach, Fla., with the spirit of a college freshman, injecting widespread optimism into Dodgertown.

"I told our players that we were going to win the pennant," Lasorda said. "I said it because I believed it and I wanted the players to believe it."

Weaver honored in A.L.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Earl Weaver, backed with the security of a three-year contract and confident of his team's ability, is eagerly awaiting the start of a new baseball season.

"Our personnel is as good as anybody's in baseball," Weaver said of the Baltimore Orioles — a team he led to a surprising second-place Eastern Division tie in 1977, just 2½ games behind the World Champion New York Yankees.

That finish, by a team thought to have been stripped of too much talent in the reentry draft, earned American League Manager of the Year honors for Weaver by a landslide vote.

Weaver received 248 votes in a nationwide poll of writers and broadcasters conducted by The Associated Press. Whitey Herzog of Kansas City edged Bob Lemon of Chicago 54-52 for second place and New York's Billy Martin polled 38 votes.

Billy Hunter, who ended a long association with the Orioles and took over in July as the fourth manager of the year for the Texas Rangers, was named on 12 ballots. Don Zimmer of the Boston Red Sox received seven votes and five went to Gene Mauch of the Minnesota Twins.

A perennial optimist with imposing career won-lost records to support his lofty goals, Weaver never gave up on the Orioles even after they lost slugger Reggie Jackson, Gold Glove second baseman Bobby Grich and 20-game winner Wayne Garland.

Although he had to use 10 players with less than one year's major league experience, Weaver directed the Orioles to 97 victories.

Foster earns top vote for N.L. all-star squad

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

Cincinnati's George Foster, baseball's leading slugger in 1977, received the most votes of any player on The Associated Press National League All Star team announced Tuesday.

Foster, whose 52 homers and 149 RBI made him one of the top single-season sluggers in baseball history, received 418 votes from a nation-wide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Foster was one of three Reds named to the NL squad. The others were second baseman Joe Morgan, who had 270 votes to 95 for runnerup Rennie Stennett of Pittsburgh; and right-handed pitcher Tom Seaver with 255 votes to 150 for Rick Reuschel of the Chicago Cubs.

First baseman Steve Garvey was the only member of the NL champion Los Angeles Dodgers named to the team in the voting that was completed before the start of the playoffs. Garvey scored the most lopsided victory in the balloting, receiving 352 of the 377 votes cast for his position.

Besides Garvey and Morgan, the NL infield consisted of Philadelphia third baseman Mike Schmidt and shortstop Garry Templeton of the St. Louis Cardinals. Schmidt received 262 votes to 87 for Ron Cey of Los Angeles; and Templeton, in his first full major league season, had 218 to 79 for Larry Bowa of Philadelphia.

Joining Foster in the NL outfield were Philadelphia's Greg Luzinski, who had 375 votes, and batting champion Dave Parker of Pittsburgh with 365.

Only three left-handed pitchers received votes, with Steve Carlton of Philadelphia the easy winner over Tommy John of Los Angeles and John Candelaria of Pittsburgh.

Injured Colorado player now in good condition

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Connie Perry says her football linebacker husband is making "a miraculous recovery, considering what he's been through."

Just about as miraculous, Mrs. Perry said Tuesday night, has been the reaction of Nebraskans to her husband's injury, suffered in his Colorado team's game against Nebraska in Lincoln last Saturday.

Perry suffered a severe head injury. He underwent one operation in a Lincoln hospital and another in an Omaha hospital Saturday night.

Perry, a 22-year-old, 6-3, 228-pound linebacker from Colorado Springs, was taken out of intensive care and moved to a private room Tuesday. His condition was described as good and he was conscious and alert.

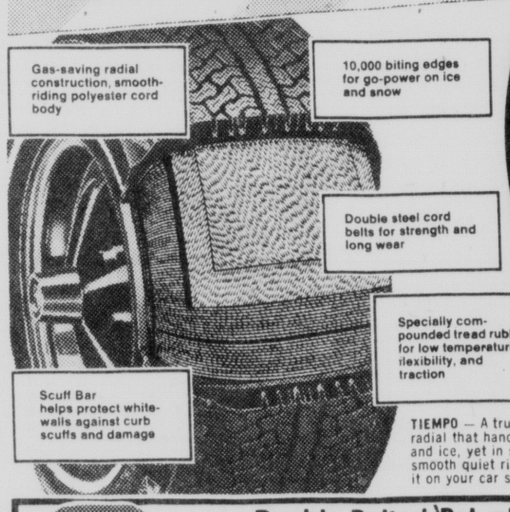

"The people of Nebraska have been super to us," Mrs. Perry said. "They've taken us in just like we were family. I guess that's the Nebraska hospitality."

She had accomodations arranged for her in the hospital by the University of Nebraska Medical Center.

"Anything that we wanted or needed we just had to ask for it," she said. "We've had many offers of clothing, places to stay and cars to drive."

Many cards have been received "from Big Red fans whose prayers have been with us," Mrs. Perry said.

Bluebirds optimistic

Cole Camp boasts height, depth

By RON HIGGINS
Staff Sportswriter

COLE CAMP — The Cole Camp Bluebirds and head coach Bob Farrington have a bright outlook as the basketball season approaches.

The Bluebirds were given a second seed in this year's Kaysinger Conference tournament scheduled for Nov. 7-12 in Lincoln. Cole Camp goes up against the Northwest Mustangs at 9 p.m. in an opening night game.

Last year, the Bluebirds finished 18-10 overall and 5-3 in the conference. Also, Cole Camp emerged the conference tournament champions after defeating first-seeded Stover 60-53 in the tournament final.

Unfortunately for the Bluebirds, gone from a year ago are three top scorers including Kim Gooch, the conference's leading scorer with an 18.5 average. "Anytime you lose a player of that caliber, it hurts," said Farrington. Also gone are Delwyn Duncan and Tom Schroeder.

Farrington believes the four top-seeded teams — Warsaw, Cole Camp, Stover, and Smithton — will head the conference race this year. "I feel they will be competing for the tournament championship as well as the conference championship," he said. "Any one of the four teams could take it."

The Cole Camp coach said he thinks the conference is getting back to being respectable with three or four 20-game winners possible this year.

As always, the Bluebirds are not without some big kids on their varsity this year. Ten members of the twelve-man squad are over 6 feet, and five of them are over 6-2. "We're going to have some size this year and we feel we're going to have some depth," said Farrington. "I've enjoyed working with this group of kids. They're an eager group and they practice with intensity. We had that freshman bunch that was 12-0 last year and we've got quite a few people back, also."

This year's roster consists of Gary Baker, a 6-6 junior center; Jerry Robinson, a 6-3 junior forward-center; Greg Harms, a 6-2½ senior guard-forward; Mitch Heimsoth, a 5-11 senior guard; Kerry Moore, a 5-11 senior guard; Steve Case, a 6-1 junior guard; Jerry Steffens, a 6-0 sophomore guard; Steve Harms, a 6-1 junior forward; Ricky Balke, a 6-1 sophomore guard-forward; Curt Luetjen, a 6-3 sophomore forward-center; Tom Oelrichs, a 6-3 sophomore center; and Dennis Schnakenberg, a 6-1 junior forward. Farrington said Baker is coming off knee surgery he had last summer. "He has been working out on weights all summer to exercise it," he said.

"We've got a lot of young kids," Farrington said of his team that consists of only three seniors. "The thing that's great is a lot of the young kids have already had experience, so we feel we're going to be more competitive and we have a lot more quickness than we've had in a while to go with the size we've got."

Cole Camp's early practice sessions have mostly stressed fundamentals. "We started the first legal practice date," said the coach. "But we haven't really been hitting it real hard. Some weeks we've gone three practices and some we've gone two, but I can say they've gone well." Farrington said fundamentals should be emphasized in the early going. "You know, you build a house on a strong foundation — that type of thing. You find all coaches, even the pros, start out in fundamentals."

The Bluebirds, down over the years, have been known for their tough defensive play. This year, to go with defense, Farrington is boasting a quick offense. "We would like to get into a more offensive-oriented season this year," he explained. "We've got people that are really quick. You can't have a good offense or a good defense unless you practice those things that are basic to it. I've scheduled the practices well in advance," he said. "If you can't pass, shoot, and dribble, there's no use in getting into an offense. On defense, if you can't get a good stance, block a few shots, and get on the boards you can't play defense. What we are doing now is working on the component parts of both."

As always, Cole Camp embarks on a tough non-conference schedule that includes California, Versailles, Windsor, Knob Noster, Eldon, Montrose, and Russellville. The Bluebird boss feels a team can't get better unless it plays tough competition and learns from its mistakes.

Green Ridge drops match to Santa Fe

ALMA — Green Ridge suffered its first regular season loss since 1975 losing a volleyball match to Santa Fe (Alma) 15-4, 16-14 Tuesday night.

Green Ridge, which went into the match with a perfect 14-0 record, attempted a comeback after falling behind 14-5 in the second match.

The Tigers managed to tie the score at 14-all, but Santa Fe scored two quick points to wrap up the match.

In the junior varsity match, Green Ridge defeated Santa Fe 15-8, 15-9. Pauline Dove scored eight points for the Green Ridge JV.

Eddie Arcaro is the only jockey to ride two Triple Crown winners. Arcaro scored with Whirlaway in 1941 and Citation in 1948.

Coaches downplay Hipp, Miller duel

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Nebraska Coach Tom Osborne says the Cornhuskers are not treating the game with Oklahoma State Saturday as a duel between their I.M. Hipp and Terry Miller, two of the nation's leading running backs.

But the Husker Coach said the regionally televised game will give the Cowboys a chance to show off Miller. It is Oklahoma State's only televised game this season.

Meanwhile, Cowboy Coach Jim Stanley said he doesn't have a No. 1 quarterback. "Randy Stephenson and Harold Bailey are too good to put one in front of the other. They both loked good today. We've got the rest of the week to decide and we'll go with the one whose moving the team the best."

After falling from the No. 3 rated team in the nation to No. 15 with a tie against Kansas and a loss to Nebraska, Bill Mallory is trying to prepare his Colorado team for Missouri. "We're at the crossroads," Mallory said. "We've got to get better. We've got to get more productive offensively. We've stumbled in the last two weeks and we've got to come up with some answers and just plain get the job done better offensively."

Missouri, after winning its first Big Eight game against Kansas State last week, is also at the crossroads, hoping to turn its season around. "Colorado is such a ball control team we have to worry about keeping the ball our share of the time," Coach Al Onofrio said as his team worked on wet turf, trying to avoid fumbles.

At Oklahoma, Barry Switzer was praising Kansas State, winless in conference play. "The Wildcats are as tough as the Iowa State team, which means they are pretty good. They are better than their record shows."

Ellis Rainsberger, the Wildcat coach, said he was having trouble finding players who could simulate the speed of the Oklahoma offense in practice. He sent his No. 2 fullback, Tony Brown, to the scout squad in hopes of giving his defense a taste of what it might be like to try to tackle Oklahoma's Kenny King.

Iowa State spent Tuesday preparing for Kansas wishbone offense. Kansas knocked off practice early so a number of players could take tests.

TOKYO — Japanese pro wrestler Antonio Inoki defeated boxer Chuck Wepner of Bayonne, N.J., in a martial arts match at Tokyo's Budokan Hall.

Make that five

New York's Don Murdoch is exultant after scoring a goal in the third period of Tuesday night's match with Cleveland. The goal was the fifth for the Rangers, who defeated Cleveland 5-0.

Walt Frazier returns to conquer New York

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer

They stood in the Madison Square Garden aisles and cheered Walt Frazier. Then Clyde stood the Garden on its ear.

Frazier, a mainstay of two championship teams with the New York Knicks, was sent to the Cleveland Cavaliers just prior to the beginning of the National Basketball Association season. He returned to his former playground Tuesday night and led Cleveland to a 117-112 overtime victory over the Knicks.

"The reception tonight was dynamite — I got goose pimples," Frazier said of the 1½-minute standing ovation he received from the sellout crowd of 19,694. "It was a happening tonight, and I won't forget it."

Frazier showed the form that made him the best guard in basketball, scoring 28 points in 44 minutes and running the Cavs' offense. With three seconds left in the overtime, he was replaced and received another standing ovation as he moved to the sidelines, his fist upraised and a smile creasing his face.

Reserve forward Bingo Smith scored nine of his 15 points in the overtime for the Cavs and Campy Russell tied Frazier for team honors with 28. Bob McAdoo, whose two foul shots with three seconds remaining in regulation time tied the game, led all scorers with 29.

In other NBA games, Philadelphia topped Kansas City 112-104, Golden State rode Rick Barry's 44 points to a 105-98 triumph over Chicago, Boston defeated Atlanta 110-103, Indiana blitzed Denver 129-104, Phoenix beat Seattle 93-86, Los Angeles edged San Antonio 109-107 and Portland blasted Buffalo 107-85.

Warriors 105, Bulls 98

Barry scored 14 points in the opening period and 10 in a late spurt in the third quarter to lead the Warriors to victory.

Celtics 110, Hawks 103

Boston won its first game of the season as Dave Cowens scored 23 points, hitting 9 of 14 floor shots.

Pacers 129, Nuggets 104

Adrian Dantley scored 32 points and John Williamson added 29 as Indiana blew out the Nuggets. The Pacers never trailed and forced Denver into 16 turnovers in the first half, eight by Dan Issel.

Suns 93, SuperSonics 86

Phoenix and Seattle continued to go in opposite directions, the unbeaten Suns winning their third straight while the winless Sonics dropped their fourth in a row.

Paul Westphal had 30 points and Phoenix held Seattle to three points in the first seven minutes of the final quarter.

Lakers 109, Spurs 107

Jamaal Wilkes' rebound basket with 48 seconds remaining gave Los Angeles its victory. Rookie guard Norm Nixon scored 24 points and handed out 10 assists to pace the Lakers.

K.C. boxer earns 10-round decision

KANSAS CITY (AP) — When Tony Chiaverini of Kansas City and Billy Duquette of Brockton, Mass., left the ring Tuesday after a 10-round middleweight bout, both men could still say they had never been knocked off their feet.

But the judges gave the fight to Chiaverini, 99-93, 100-90, 99-85.

Duquette was Chiaverini's ninth straight victim. Chiaverini opened a cut over Duquette's left eye with a solid right hook early in the 10th round, but Duquette said he felt he could finish the round.

"He was throwing jabs, but he never hit me with 'em," Chiaverini said. "Then I started clipping him, working on the eye."

In the light heavyweight bout following the main event, Ivy Brown, Kansas City, knocked out Leon Washington, Marshall, Tex., at 2:06 of the first round.

In earlier bouts, Ken Sallee, St. Louis; defeated Tyrone Wren, Kansas City, in a four-round split decision welterweight fight. Wardell Williams, Kansas City, knocked out Simmie Black, Memphis, Tenn., at 1:02 of the first round in a featherweight bout.

In a light heavyweight fight, Troy Vaughn, Wichita Falls, Tex., defeated Hank Gregory, Joplin, Mo., in a six-round split decision.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

North's two-heart call was one of those modernistic cue bids that many think are sent to try men's souls. Anyway, it was a game force that asked South to bid notrump if he had either a complete or partial heart stopper or to make his normal rebid if he didn't have one.

North might have a real cue bid. In that case he could repeat the cue bid, blast to a slam or let his conscience be his guide.

This time he raised South to three notrump and West opened the five of hearts.

In a rubber bridge game South would play dummy's four spot and be certain of his heart stopper, but this was match point duplicate and South did have a problem.

He knew he would be risking his contract if East held the ace of hearts, but would be sure of an important overtrick if West held it. So, he played dummy's king and was set two tricks.

We have no sympathy for South. In order for the low play to cost him that overtrick it was necessary first that East would hold the queen of hearts and second that East would shift to a spade.

Ask the Jacobys

A Mississippi reader asks what is the penalty. He bids four notrump (Blackwood), partner responds five hearts, he bids five notrump and partner responds five diamonds by mistake.

If partner makes the bid sufficient by saying six diamonds there is no penalty. If he makes it sufficient any other way, the notrump bidder is barred for one round.

Ann Landers

Post Office wins Golden Fleece

Dear Ann Landers; I recently read that Sen. William Proxmire from Wisconsin gave the Golden Fleece Award to the U.S. Postal Service for spending $3.4 million on an advertising campaign aimed at persuading Americans to write more letters. In case you don't know, The Golden Fleece Award is presented every month by Sen. Proxmire to make the public aware of the most ridiculous waste of the taxpayers' money.

Did you ever hear of anything so crazy as spending millions in an attempt to get people to write more letters? The U.S. Postal Service is in such a sorry state now that more letters would only make things worse. If the Postal Department is having such a tough time making ends meet, why don't they knock out Saturday deliveries? Are you with me? — Columbia, Tenn., Reader

Dear Reader: No. I wholeheartedly agree with Sen. Proxmire that the $3.4 million campaign to get people to write more letters is a bummer, but your suggestion that Saturday mail deliveries be discontinued is another bummer.

What people get on Saturday is Friday's mail. If we knocked out the Saturday delivery we would get Friday's mail on Tuesday because the double load would not be manageable on Monday. So, please — let's not encourage a change that will make a bad situation worse.

Dear Ann Landers: I am really furious at the mother-in-law who made a nationwide appeal through your column to her daughter-in-law to please let Sonny Boy spend one day alone with Mama as a birthday gift. She signed herself, "A Widow Who Knows." I realize an Ohio reader has already blown her top over this "Poor Little Me" suggestion. Now may I blow mine?

Doesn't "Widow" know that her son's feet are not nailed to the floor? If he wanted to spend a day with her he would do it.

Whenever we go to my mother-in-law's house she hands my husband a list of things that "need doing" before we even get out of the car. Then she nags him to "sit up straight" — "finish your supper" — "don't make crumbs" — as if he were six years old.

Any mother who wants to see more of her son should look not to her daughter-in-law, but to herself. — Saying It Again

Dear Saying: You and thousands of others — which convinces me that the daughters-in-law who wrote to blast the "gift suggestion" are on solid ground. You are right, girls. You can't give your husband a day with his mother. He must give it himself.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a different person than I was last week. I never appreciated how wonderful it is to be alive until I felt a lump in my breast. I kept thinking, "What if it's the worst?"

I went to the doctor immediately, praying all the way. He did a biopsy. Thank God — no cancer. I now appreciate things I never noticed before. This may sound stupid but I'm glad I was scared into looking at life — Through Different Eyes

Dear Diff: Your letter focuses on a common failing. So many of us have a tendency to take our blessings for granted. Thanks for the reminder. We can all use it.

Coffee lesson for Brazil: Consumer still has clout

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The American public may be winning its battle with coffee growers in Brazil, where an awful lot of the product is piling up.

The long battle has had its ups and downs, and it isn't unusual in today's volatile markets for the seeming victor to be the suddenly vanquished. Whatever, the domestic price of coffee has been falling.

Since last spring, to illustrate, the Folger Coffee Co., a division of Procter and Gamble, has reduced the wholesale price of ground roasted coffee by $1.25 a pound to a current level of $3.18.

Brazil, meanwhile, remains determined to keep its minimum export price at $3.20 a pound — that's for green rather than ground and roasted. And at that price it is able to sell almost none to the United States.

Instead, a good deal of U.S. green coffee comes from Colombia, whose growers have been selling to American roaster-grinders at less than $2 a pound.

How long Brazil can hold out against a market that differs so enormously from its own view of things may have something to do with Brazilian foresight or stubborness or the financial condition of its growers.

Clearly they hope for a return at least to their minimum export price, but such thinking is at variance with very obvious changes in the American market.

For one thing, the relatively high price of coffee has apparently driven away many customers. Citibank analysts estimate per capita coffee consumpton this year will fall to about 11 pounds on a green bean basis, compared to 12.8 pounds per person in 1976.

Americans are perhaps more health conscious as well, concerned about alleged links between coffee consumption and stress, as well as by the medical profession's new emphasis on disease prevention rather than remedial treatment.

The situation, however, is hardly static.

Factors over which no person has control, frost and plant disease especially, could once again cut available stocks to the point where the market is again dominated by sellers rather than buyers.

The drop in U.S. consumption could turn out to be a passing phenonmenon. Coffee is closely tied to social custom as well as taste. Those who tend to this viewpoint recall that cigarette consumption has remained strong despite warnings that smoking may be hazardous to health.

Marketing strategy, such as a strong media campaign to emphasize the merits of the beverage, could conceivably change a lot of consumer minds.

While Brazilians might not appreciate it, there is a lesson to be recognized in the resistance of consumers: They are not totally pawns of the sellers, as they sometimes believe; they can exert pressure.

Heart attack delays trial in fraud case

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The trial of a former state employe charged with defrauding the Missouri Guaranty Student Loan Fund has been delayed because the man suffered a heart attack.

In September, state Auditor Thomas Keyes disclosed that the student loan fund had been defrauded of more than $41,000 between February of 1974 and April of 1977.

Robert Silvey, who formerly headed the student loan section, subsequently was charged in Cole County with one count of stealing by deceit.

Silvey is currently free on bond. If convicted, he faces a possible sentence of up to seven years in prison or one year in the county jail or a $1,000 fine or both.

He was also charged with three counts on the same felony in Callaway County.

Silvey's trial in Cole County was set for Tuesday, but a court spokesman said the trial was delayed because he suffered a heart attack.

Silvey's attorney, John Hearne of Jefferson City said in early October the former state employe "suffered a massive heart attack" and was unable to stand trial at this time.

St. Louis plant shut down

LEMAY, Mo. (AP) — Air pollution three times higher than the emergency level has prompted St. Louis County officials to order the closing of the NL Industries Titanium Division plant.

"I felt there was an immediate threat to the health of the people in that vicinity," Blaine J. Rhoades, county Air Pollution Control director, said Tuesday in announcing the shutdown order. "I felt that I had no alternative."

The indefinite closing of the plant, which is at the juncture of the Mississippi River and the River Des Peres near St. Louis, is expected to idle about 900 workers.

Rhoades said he ordered the shutdown after instruments recorded very high levels of sulfur dioxide and particulate matter in the air. He said he consulted company officials after preliminary findings indicated the high concentrations. The officials, he said, agreed to cut the plant's production by 50 per cent.

However, a few hours later, when he discovered that the pollution was three times above the level required to declare an emergency, he ordered the shutdown.

Rhoades said the pollution was being blown toward the river and posed no serious threat at this time. He said his decision, which he called "the most drastic action that could be taken," was based on data collected by city and county health officials as well as the Environmental Protection Agency.

City, state, and federal air quality control officials are scheduled to meet today to discuss how to reopen the plant. Company officials were not immediately available for comment.

In September, an acid plant at the NL facility was closed when a sulfuric acid mist seeped into the air because of a malfunction.

Retail food prices erratic

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Retail food prices were erratic last week, with increases ranging up to six cents over the week before and decreases as high as 13 cents, according to the weekly marketbasket survey by the Missouri Farm Bureau.

The survey of selected food items in 50 stores across the state showed sirloin steak up a nickel at $1.91 a pound while T-bone steak fell the same amount to $2.10 a pound.

Round steak at $1.43 a pound was four cents higher and beef blade roast rose three cents a pound to 86 cents. Rib steak was six cents lower at $1.65 a pound while ground beef at 79 a pound and arm roast at $1.11 a pound were each a penny cheaper.

Ham was higher with a shank portion two cents higher at 93 cents a pound and a butt portion up three cents to $1.04 a pound.

Center cut chops were up six cents to $1.85 while pork steak fell three cents to $1.13 a pound and pork blade roast was a penny cheaper at $1.10 a pound.

A whole fryer chicken was two cents a pound higher at 54 cents while cut up parts remained steady at 61 cents a pound.

A gallon of whole milk fell a penny to $1.63 while a gallon of 2 per cent was steady at $1.56.

A dozen grade A eggs were mixed with extra large at 73 and large at 68 both up a penny and medium at 57 cents two cents cheaper.

A 1½ pound loaf of white bread was a penny higher at 65 cents while potatoes fell 13 cents for a 10-pound bag to $1.16 and a one pound can of coffee was eight cents cheaper at $3.61.

Kingston, the capital and largest city of Jamaica, has 170,000 residents.
